gress Makes Own Rules

BULLETIN
Washington (AP)—For nearly two hours Wednesday the senate elections committee discussed case of Frank L. Smith, senator-designate and senator-elect from Illinois, but came to no conclusion.

"We met, we discussed the matter and we adjourned until tomorrow just as though we had held no meeting," said Chairman Ernest.

Other committee members disclosed that the consensus was that no action be taken until Smith has been given an opportunity to present testimony.

Washington—Colonel Frank Smith of Illinois has learned in his brief visit here that there is a definite sentiment against him at this session. He had hoped that legal arguments would sway the members of the senate but he has discovered that nothing will avail.

While it is true that Mr. Smith is not in good health at the moment; it is also true that his chances for consideration are better in the December session than they would be if the vote were taken this week. In other words, the question whether the senate will reject a man who has been duly elected after the people were fully aware of what happened in the primary campaign is a little more difficult to decide than the question of personal fitness in connection with the appointment by a governor.

There are those who believe that Mr. Smith will carry his case to the supreme court of the United States if he is ultimately refused a seat in the senate. But some members of the senate declare that this would be a futile move because under the constitution the house and senate can make their own rules.

Just what Colonel Smith decides to do has an important bearing on the disposition of the case of Senator-elect Vane of Pennsylvania. A certain group of senators would prefer to have both cases considered in one purely on the grounds of excessive expenditure irrespective of the source of contribution. This means that some limit on campaign expenditures will be attempted once more.

The whole problem has been complicated by the fact that there is at present a legislative jam and members of the senate are not disposed to allow much time to debate on the question of eligibility when such a debate might be the lever to force an extra session.

SMITH MAY WAIT
It is believed that Colonel Smith was persuaded by some of his Republican friends that it would be wiser to allow the matter to rest with a committee report at this session. This means that when Mr. Smith presents his credentials next December the committee would have to sit again and make a new report. The case at that time would differ in that the arguments in the case of Colonel Smith would be that he had been legally elected by the people of Illinois and that the senate had nothing to inquire into what happened in the primary contest. It is generally conceded that there is more to be said on this kind of question than on the mere appointment by a governor.

It would appear, therefore, that for the remainder of this session which expires on March 4, the senate of Illinois will have only one representative on the floor of the senate. Under the precedent established at the present session it is very likely that Illinois will not have two votes for some time to come, because when Colonel Smith presents his credentials in December they will be referred to a committee and until the committee report is debated and finally voted upon, there is no opportunity for the senator-elect to take part in the proceedings.

FARM BUREAU CONDEMNS ATTITUDE OF JARDINE

Madison (AP)—In its annual meeting Tuesday night, the state farm bureau passed resolutions condemning war, urging the United States senate to investigate the Mexican-Nicaraguan situation, condemning Secretary of Agriculture Jardine for his stand on farm relief and pledging support to a candidate for president from the agricultural west.

VOTE AGAINST LIQUOR FOR MEDICINAL PURPOSES

Washington (AP)—The treasury proposal for replenishing the stock of medicinal liquor was rejected Wednesday by the house ways and means committee by a vote of 16-10.

BROWNING IS GLOOMY OVER HIS PROSPECTS IN SEPARATION SUIT

New York (AP)—Edward W. Browning, was pessimistic Wednesday over the outcome of his separation suit against Peaches. "A woman always has 99 chances out of 100," he said. The court-house at White Plains was comparatively still Wednesday. There was no laughter over tales of an African hunting gander, rubber eggs and bending spoons. The separation suit of the 32-year-old wealthy realty operator against his 16-year-old wife was under advisement by Supreme Court Justice Seeger.

The final hearing was held Tuesday. The rival attorneys will have three weeks to amplify contentions and file briefs.

STOCK BREEDERS HAVE THEIR INNING IN FARMERS' WEEK

"Little International" Live- stock Show Is Day's Fea- ture in Madison

Madison, Wis. (AP)—This is livestock breeders' day at the Farm and Homemakers' week celebration being held at the state agriculture college. Stress was placed in the addresses before the general sessions on agricultural matters affecting livestock. The address of G. B. Mortimer, of the agronomy department, for instance, touching on better pasture, upon which the state's cattle are fed for a considerable portion of the year.

Outstanding on the day's program is the "little international" livestock show, scheduled for Wednesday afternoon. Hundreds of prize cattle, horses, and other livestock are to be paraded before the audience with a climactic exhibition of the world's champion six-horse draft horses from Chicago.

Mr. Mortimer urged farmers to give more consideration to their pastures, declaring that while there is no problem of more importance to drymen and farmers generally "no problem of cropping has received less attention."

He outlined in an extensive address the rotation of pasture crops, and the rotation of pastures, stressing the value of clovers. The constant drain upon permanent pastures for production of milk and meat, he said, must enforce some method of recropping and judicious grazing practices. He gave information on these two lines to the farmers.

IDEAL HOME LIFE

Home Economics stand for ideal home life of today unhindered by the traditions of the past. Lita Bane, department of home economics, University of Wisconsin, said in her address Wednesday.

"I wish I could write a prescription which would indicate just what conditions would make for an ideal home life."

YOUTH HURT IN AIRPLANE WRECK LOSES HIS LEG

George Hannagan, youthful victim of an airplane accident Aug. 6, had one leg amputated at St. Elizabeth hospital as result of his injuries.

The plane which Mr. Hannagan, Robert Shepherd and Melvin Thompson were operating fell to the ground near Quarry, Wis.

A poor flying field from which to make the descent was the original cause of the accident. The occupants' bodies in the taking off they struck a downward air-current and were too close to the ground to regain control. The plane was completely demolished. Mr. Thompson was injured slightly. Mr. Shepherd had more serious injuries, but Mr. Hannagan has not been able to be about since the accident.

The three were leaving for the Neptune pageant in Milwaukee where they were to enter an air derby Aug. 5.

KAUKAUNA POLICE HIT AT SLOT MACHINES

Kaukauna—Business houses operating slot machines and permitting gambling games were warned Wednesday morning by R. H. McCarthy, chief of police, to take out the machines and stop the games by Wednesday afternoon or arrests would follow. Eight slot machines and two gambling games discovered by the chief when he made an investigation of gambling conditions in the city. Reports had been circulating for several days that there was a great deal of gambling in Kaukauna.

The condition was not bad, Mr. McCarthy said, and he expected the machines to be out by Thursday at the latest. The machines were located in two places, the chief said.

CABINET SEES LITTLE HOPE FOR TREATY

United States Takes Further Steps to Insure Protec- tion of Citizens

London (AP)—The British cabinet was called into session early Wednesday afternoon to consider what the newspapers term "grave" reports from China.

The foreign office, in a published statement, insists that the negotiations with the Cantowest at Kowloon have not broken down but admits that Foreign Minister Chen's action in raising the question of the dispatch of British military forces to Shanghai has ruined the prospects of early signature of the draft agreement negotiated by Chen and the British chargé d'affaires Owen O'Malley.

This agreement would provide for settlement of the recent incidents at Hankow and Kiang in which the British concessions were stormed by anti-foreign mobs.

"From information available," the foreign office stated Wednesday, "it appears that during the negotiations regarding the future status of the British concessions in Hankow and Kiang Chen raised the question of the dispatch of British troops to China."

"Consequently," the negotiations have taken a turn and the prospects

NEENAH WOMAN KNOCKED OFF BRIDGE INTO CANAL

Neenah—Mrs. Frank Thalke, Abbeville, was knocked into a canal here by a hoisting crane being used in the construction of the new bridge Wednesday noon. Her unconscious body was rescued by Theodore Aldinger who was crossing the bridge at the time.

The woman was crossing the bridge and crawled under the crane. She raised her head and was knocked into the water. A deep gash was cut in her head. She was taken to the office of the Wausau Construction Co., which is in charge of the bridge building, and regained consciousness in about an hour. Mrs. Thalke was then taken to Theda Clark hospital for treatment.

MAY BEGIN ACTION IN HURLEY HEARINGS SOON

Superior (AP)—Federal Judge Claude Z. Luse is due at his home here by Thursday, following a trip to the Panama Zone to recover from a thyroid operation at Rochester, Minn., six weeks ago. His arrival is expected to put into motion the prosecution of 20 Harley resort owners, 28 from Marshall and others from Wisconsin Rapids, Wausau and other Wisconsin points.

RIPON CAGERS DEFEAT OSHKOSH NORMAL, 21-13

Oshkosh (AP)—Ripon college defeated Oshkosh Normal, 21 to 13, Tuesday night. The passing of both teams was erratic. At the end of the first half the score stood 10 to 5 in favor of the visitors. Lohr, center, and Halverson, forward, were high pointers for Ripon. Captain Bredendick played a good game for the teachers.

FOUR ESCAPED INMATES OF SCHOOL RECAPTURED

St. Paul (AP)—Four of eight boys who escaped from the state training school at Red Wing Tuesday night, were captured here Wednesday less than six hours after they had eluded a guard and stolen two automobiles. Search for the other four is being made in the Twin Cities.

FLORIDA HOTEL BURNS; LOSS SET AT $100,000

Avon Park, Fla. (AP)—Fire early Wednesday destroyed Avon Park hotel, landmark of pioneer days, with an estimated loss of $100,000. Thirty-six guests escaped in scanty attire. It was the first tourist hotel built in interior southern Florida.

BALLARD TELLS SOL TO REMOVE WELCOME SIGN FROM HIS DOOR

Madison (AP)—State Treasurer Solomon Levitan's sign, "Uncle Sol, your state treasurer, welcomes you," has been removed from the door to his office at the order of Clinton Ballard, state superintendent of public property.

Mr. Ballard in a letter to the state treasurer said that the sign resembled an "Ad for a Jewish fire sale," and asked that it be removed. The letter suggested that a similar display on the doors of other state offices would be improper and that the sign tacked into the door's window frame defaced the entrance way.

Mr. Levitan, beyond removing the sign and saying that the letter was an offense to him and his race, declined to comment on the epistle. He added that he wished to engage in no controversy.

ENGINEER WORKS ON FOUR PLANS FOR S. MASON-ST PAVING

At Least Part of Improve- ment Plan Will Have to Wait Another Year

Because of shortage of funds it is possible that the Mason-st paving project may have to be abandoned for a year unless the property owners can agree on some plan which will provide for allowing part of the work to be postponed for at least a year.

The city must pay the entire cost of rebuilding the Chicago and Northwestern viaduct on Mason-st and the cost of this improvement probably will be so large that no funds will be left for paving.

Mr. Connelly, city engineer, is preparing several sets of plans and specifications as there are several ways in which the work may be done and still leave a part of the improvement until next year.

The first plan shows the street car tracks in their present position on the west side of the street. Property owners have expressed a desire to have the street car tracks in the center of the street and that it will be necessary to devise some means of doing only part of the work this year.

WAIT FOR ESTIMATE

Another set of plans is being prepared showing the pavement with the street car tracks in the center of the street. To complete this plan however, the viaduct must be changed and the supporting pier which now divides the bridge and the bridge must be removed. The estimating engineer of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad now has data and is preparing an estimate of the cost of the change. It is believed the proposed change will cost a sum that it will be necessary to devise some means of doing only part of the work this year.

HOUSE TURNS DOWN SENATE ON NAVY BILL

Washington (AP)—Without debate the house Wednesday refused to accept the senate amendment to the naval appropriation bill, providing for three more cruisers. The bill was sent to conference. The house also refused to accept all other senate amendments. This procedure is customary. Representative French, Republican, Idaho, was appointed to head the house conference.

State Honors Five Men For Services To Farming

Madison (AP)—Edward L. Divan, Brownstown; S. W. Faville, Lake Mills; W. H. Hanchett, Monroe County; Jens Jensen, Bone Lake and R. B. Melvin, Greenbush are the five farmers who were honored by the state agricultural college tonight. They were given testimonials of honorary recognition by the state school because of their work in Wisconsin agriculture, making a total of 65 men and four women that have been so honored.

Here are sketches of the men who for 1927 were given what is recognized as one of the most important tributes in Wisconsin.

Edward L. Divan, born in Greenock March 16, 1867, on the farm now owned by him, and purchased from the government by his father in 1841. The father emigrated from Ohio in a covered wagon.

"E. L." grew to manhood on the farm, attending district school during the four-months winter terms and working on the farm during the summer. He is one of the few living men who can operate an old grain cutting cradle. Married Anna B. Rhinhardt in 1888. They have two children, Shelby M., known in fair circles as an exhibitor of Poland china dogs, and Vera M., nationally known as the Wisconsin champion in pigs and club work.

Mr. Divan has been a breeder of registered hogs for thirty years and for nearly as long a breeder of registered short horn cattle, that have taken prizes at several fairs, including the St. Louis world's exposition. Since 1903 he has acted as stock judge more than a hundred times. In 27 different Wisconsin fairs. During this time he helped organize and was president of the company which brought the first large shipment of Percheron and Shire stallions into this state.

Mr. Divan has been active in community affairs, serving with the exception of one year, as manager of the telephone company in his township, as president of the local district school board for 17 years. His friends claim he divides his time, one half for his own interests and the other share for his community and state.

Jens Jensen, born in Denmark November 26, 1858, came to the United States and to Bone Lake, Polk co., in 1872, to the same farm he now operates.

Known as the "most cooperative" farmer in Wisconsin, Mr. Jensen has always believed in organization of ef-

DENY MEXICAN PLAN TO SEIZE OIL PROPERTY

Legislation in No Form Implies Idea of Confiscation, Calles Declares

Mexican City (AP)—Denial that the Mexican government intends to confiscate the lands of foreigners and a declaration that "the spirit of our legislation in no form implies the idea of confiscation" are contained in a statement issued by the department of commerce, industry and labor.

The statement is based on a dispatch printed by El Universal of Mexico City, embodying an American newspaper report that Mexico was to seize the properties of oil companies refusing to accept the new Mexican laws and exploit them under the management of officials or ex-officials of the Mexican administration.

"Such an unheard of assertion," the statement says, "has surprised this department because it previously had specifically and categorically declared that it had no desire to confiscate or seize in any manner properties belonging to companies refusing to comply with our petroleum legislation."

TO WITHHOLD RECOGNITION

Washington (AP)—As in the case of General Chamorro who overthrew the American-recognized Nicaraguan government of President Solozano, the United States has served notice on Juan B. Sacasa, Liberal leader now opposing President Diaz, that he must not expect recognition from the United States even if he succeeds in the present war.

Until the legal elections next year in that country the United States, Sacasa was informed, will continue to recognize Adolfo Diaz, the Conservative, as the constitutional head of Nicaragua.

Dr. T. S. Vaca, Sacasa's agent here, brought this latest development in the Nicaraguan situation to light Tuesday night in renewing Liberal protest against American action in landing naval forces in that country. Sacasa also said he had killed four others here. Following a chat he made, authorities Tuesday disintegrated the bones in the basement of a cottage here.

WIFE KILLS HUSBAND WITH AXE IN OHIO

Cleveland, O. (AP)—Anton Liszka, 38, was hanged to death with a noose wielded by his daughter Elizabeth, 12, and his wife Anna, 28, Wednesday because they were "afraid he would kill us."

The wife, in telling police of the killing, said she struck the first blow with a long-handled woodsman's axe and her daughter aided her with a hatchet.

Mrs. Liszka said her husband had been whipping her all night. She said she was afraid of him. She said she was forced to leave home. She told police that during the night she awakened her husband and asked him to get her a drink. He refused and quarreled with her for waking him. Later she said she got up and while returning to bed stumbled over to his axe. Fearing her husband meant to kill her she awoke Elizabeth who secured a hatchet.

"I hit him several times on the head with the axe," Mrs. Liszka told police and Elizabeth, 12, said she helped her mother. The mother then awakened the other two children and all four went to a nearby police station.

"I'm sorry, in a way, I did it," she told police, "but I feel my children are safer. My heart is lighter for my children live. My husband had been drinking and abusing us so that we all feared for our lives."

SENATE TO VOTE ON TAX REDUCTION THIS WEEK

Washington, D. C. (AP)—The senate Wednesday agreed to go on record not later than Friday on the Democratic proposal for tax reduction at this session of congress.

Facing a threatened Democratic filibuster, Republican leaders accepted a unanimous consent agreement for action on the resolution of Senator Harrison, Democratic, Mississippi, which would express it as the sense of the senate that a reduction in the permanent tax schedule should be made before the March 4 adjournment. The resolution would not in itself, however, accomplish any tax revision.

JUDGE ON GRILL

Madison (AP)—The Prescott resolution, calling for an investigation of the state highway commission, was passed Wednesday by the state assembly, 71 to 17, after a substitute resolution favoring an audit of the commission's books was indefinitely postponed.

The Prescott resolution was carried after extensive debate in the assembly, while the senate confirmed several of the governor's appointments.

SUBSTITUTE RESOLUTION
Debate in the assembly centered around the substitute resolution of Assemblyman Hinkley, Milwaukee, which named the members of a prospective investigation committee and included a specific request for an audit in the resolution.

The appointments confirmed by the senate were Milton A. Freedy, as insurance commissioner for the term ending June 30, 1927, and to succeed himself for the next full term.

Charles D. Ross, as tax commissioner for the term ending the first Monday in May, 1927, and to succeed himself for the full term following.

Harriet E. Gurmi, was member of the state board of control, for the term ending the first Monday in February, 1928.

Yosta Wraebel, to be a member of the industrial commission in place of L. A. Tarrell, resigned.

UNEARTH BONES OF FOUR VICTIMS OF CONVICTED SLAYER

Find Skeletons of Woman and Children With Whom Texan Lived 10 Years Ago

Whittier, Calif.—George J. Hassell, convicted Texas slayer, Wednesday was branded thirteen times a murderer, as the bones of four of his victims were found in a vault here after having been unearthed as the result of a confession he recently made.

The skeletons of the four—a woman, and three children—were presumed to be those of Mrs. Hattie Vogel of Pittsburg, Pa., and her children, with whom Hassell lived here more than ten years ago. When Hassell recently confessed to nine murders in Texas he also said he had killed four others here. Following a chat he made, authorities Tuesday disintegrated the bones in the basement of a cottage here.

In further substantiation of Hassell's story, neighbors identified news-photos of him as the "Mr. Baker" who once occupied the cottage with a woman known to them as "Mrs. Baker" and her three adopted children. Hassell admits having used the name of Baker while living here. He is awaiting execution in Texas as the result of the slaying in that state of his wife and eight stepchildren.

ONE KILLED, FOUR HURT IN HIGHWAY ACCIDENTS

Madison (AP)—One man is dead, three men and one woman seriously injured in accidents probably caused by hazardous driving on ice-covered streets. Roy Nolan, 40, died early Wednesday from a skull fracture and injuries received when he was hit by an automobile driven by Louis Harmer. Two men received skull fractures, a man was injured seriously when knocked down Tuesday night by motorists, and a woman was struck early Wednesday by an auto.

DAUGHTER HELPS MOTHER MURDER SLEEPING MAN—FEARED HE WOULD KILL THEM

Cleveland, O. (AP)—Anton Liszka, 38, was hanged to death with a noose wielded by his daughter Elizabeth, 12, and his wife Anna, 28, Wednesday because they were "afraid he would kill us."

ZIMMERMAN APPOINTS NEW BELOIT JUDGE

Madison (AP)—Chester H. Christensen, Beloit attorney, is the new judge of the Beloit Municipal court as the successor of John B. Clark, resigned. Announcement of the appointment was made late Tuesday by Governor Fred R. Zimmerman. Mr. Christensen was a candidate for district attorney of Rock-co two years ago and was defeated. For many years he has been a member of the Rock-co board of supervisors. Judge Clark resigned to enter private practice after many years on the bench. Christensen will serve until the spring election.

SOLONS TABLE PROPOSAL TO AUDIT BOOKS

Prescott Resolution for In- quiry Carried 71 to 17 After Debate

CONFIRM APPOINTMENTS Senate Approves Several Nominees of Zimmerman in Wednesday's Session

Madison (AP)—The Prescott resolution, calling for an investigation of the state highway commission, was passed Wednesday by the state assembly, 71 to 17, after a substitute resolution favoring an audit of the commission's books was indefinitely postponed.

The Prescott resolution was carried after extensive debate in the assembly, while the senate confirmed several of the governor's appointments.

SUBSTITUTE RESOLUTION
Debate in the assembly centered around the substitute resolution of Assemblyman Hinkley, Milwaukee, which named the members of a prospective investigation committee and included a specific request for an audit in the resolution.

The appointments confirmed by the senate were Milton A. Freedy, as insurance commissioner for the term ending June 30, 1927, and to succeed himself for the next full term.

Harriet E. Gurmi, was member of the state board of control, for the term ending the first Monday in February, 1928.

Yosta Wraebel, to be a member of the industrial commission in place of L. A. Tarrell, resigned.

DAVID NOT CONFIRMED

The senate, avoiding confusion of the appointment of Benjamin U. Davis, to be commissioner of agriculture in place of John B. Jones, Jr., postponing this matter until next week, after Senator Goodland of Racine, had asked postponement until March 1. He declared that he possessed a letter derogatory to Mr. Davis which he wished to put to a possible investigation committee. If some committee to investigate the appointment of Mr. Davis is not selected, Mr. Goodland said he would make the letter public.

OBJECT TO TACTICS

The author of the original resolution objected strenuously to "the tactics of those taking this 'holier than thou' attitude" saying that the substitute was "an attempt to delay the matter."

Reis of Madison, who would have been a member of the committee, spoke against the substitute, declaring that an audit of the books of 16 years back would delay the immediate business of the committee—that of investigating recent movements in the commission.

Mr. Reis also objected to the naming of the committee in the resolution, declaring that it was without precedent, and took the power given by law to the speaker, away from that official.

BLAMES NEWSPAPERS

Assemblyman Krouse spoke against investigations in general, saying that newspapers were the "only ones excited about this highway business," and that "investigation would be nothing but a lot of hot air."

In the following comments there was repeated clamoring for the floor. Speaker Eber, finally being able to put the question on the substitute, it was voted down, 52 to 39.

Edwards of Sussex, then moved tabling of the Prescott resolution until the similar resolution in the senate could be brought to the assembly, and after objection by Prescott who said it was another attempt to delay action, the motion was lost, 62 to 27.

MADISON MAN IS NAMED TO INDUSTRIAL GROUP

Madison (AP)—Governor Zimmerman has filled the position on the state industrial commission, left vacant by the resignation of L. A. Tarrell, by the appointment of Yosta Wraebel of Madison. Mr. Wraebel is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, and special examiner of the industrial commission. Announcement of the appointment was made late Tuesday.

WOULD BOOST TAX ON GAS TO 5 CENTS AND WIPE OUT LICENSES

Milwaukee Assemblyman Has Plan to Reduce Cost of State Government

Madison—(AP)—A gasoline tax of 5 cents, with accompanying reduction of license fees will soon be proposed in the assembly by Frederick J. Peterson, representing sixth Milwaukee district.

The bill, as yet in a formative stage, probably will provide for a registration fee of one dollar, this cost to cover the issuance of license taxes and a title. The tags would be for the use in Wisconsin of the car for which they are issued.

Explaining the motive for the bill, Assemblyman Peterson said: "It costs about $550,000 to collect about nine million dollars worth of license fees. At the same time it costs only about $10,000 to collect the five million dollars obtained in gasoline taxes. One reason for the lower cost of collecting the gas tax is the fact that many companies, when the state simply send a check for the amount of the tax, so that in some cases there is not any collection cost at all.

"The difference between the cost of collecting the two taxes, however, is so great, that some system of decreasing the cost of administration of the automobile tax should be evolved, which at the same time would not cut down on the total revenue. This 5-cent tax on gasoline would give the state an income of a million dollars more than is now obtained and with an accompanying reduction of license fees the motor car driver would lose nothing in the final analysis.

"The increase in gasoline tax would allow reduction of the registration fee to a dollar, abolition of the personal property tax on automobiles and provide a greater study of funds and the lower cost of administration of the tax."

SEFTENBERG BILL HITS AT LOBBYISTS

Oshkosh Assemblyman's Resolution Keeps "Influencers" Out of Assembly Chamber

Madison—(AP)—With Assemblyman Prescott's resolution asking for an investigation of the state highway commission and its work the special order of business in the assembly Wednesday, little time is expected to be available for the introduction of a great number of bills. Tuesday, however, the assemblymen entered a long list of proposed measures on the clerk's rolls, after passing the resolution by Seftenberg, excluding all lobbyists from the chambers of from halls and corridors adjacent.

Some of these bills and their authors are: One increasing the pay for jurors from four to six dollars a day—Miller. A proposal to add Sheboygan and Manitowish-water to those in which the season on milk and muskrat is set, and changing the opening of the season from October 25 to November 15—Roedel.

One by Beggs relating to the collection of costs of replanting lands, and another by the same assemblyman relating to management of county institutions. Assemblyman Fuhrman's bill adding Shawano county to those in which there is no open season for deer.

Making the county board elect the county highway board, instead of allowing either that election or the appointment by the chairman of the county board, by Nelson.

Allowing the Marathon county court to handle criminal and civil cases, by Berres.

Raising the bounty on wolf cubs from four to ten dollars, by Schultz. Trembath's bill detaching certain territory from the corporate limits of the town of Flambeau.

A bill relating to the system of school districts and board of education, by Ellenbecker.

TALKS AT WAUPUN Dan Hardt, publicity director at Lawrence college, will talk on The Purpose of a College Education to high school students at Waupun Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Hardt is making a series of addresses before high school audiences throughout the state.

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Mostly fair tonight, probably becoming unsettled Thursday, with snow by afternoon or night; rising temperature Thursday.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

A low pressure area crossing the lake region yesterday caused strong wind and rain over the Lake region, with snow over the north portion. High pressure is moving into the Lake Superior district this morning, but without developing as much strength or as low temperatures as was at first expected. Extensive low pressure is developing over the Rocky Mountain region again this morning. This is expected to extend its influence to this section by Thursday, with the pressure becoming unsettled and the temperature rising slowly.

receiving one of the highest tributes that Wisconsin can give its men of the field and furrow, came to Wisconsin in 1943 from New York and settled on land he had purchased from the government, in Jefferson county.

ATTENDED LAWRENCE On this farm Stoughton Faville was born, February 12, 1852. Aside from his district school education, two years in Lawrence college, and two terms in teaching, Mr. Faville has devoted his time to farming. Beginning in the days of wheat growing in Wisconsin, his community was among the first to take up the business of dairying, starting out with the mixed common herds of cattle.

Mr. Faville has grown a pure bred Holstein-Friesian herd of about 90 animals, on the average, including from 30 to 60 cows. His farm of 400 acres, a mixture of upland and grass land, has been almost entirely cultivated for the forwarding of the dairy interests of the state, and he always has been considered a leader and counselor in the industry.

Mr. Faville has had time enough to become a hobby expert and has become a collector and an authority on Indian relics. Wild flowers of his part of the state are also his friends.

He has four children and has given each a college education and has provided them with a background of life which has made Faville Homestead a landmark among successful pioneering homes.

BUILT ASSOCIATION

Rodman B. Melvin, Greenbush, has been unusually successful as an agriculturist but probably his greatest recognition is due to his work in organizing and outlining the financial program of the Wisconsin Cheese Association.

Mr. Melvin, as an employee of the association, built its financial standing on a firm foundation, and today carries the responsibility of a cooperative organization, doing an annual business of seven millions of dollars annually.

Mr. Melvin was born on a farm near Greenbush, Sheboygan-co., November 12, 1860. He has spent the majority of his years in this county as an active dairyman.

Elected as state assemblyman in 1914, he served his district in this capacity until 1920, being reelected twice. In 1921 Mr. Melvin was also named president of the Sheboygan County Holstein Breeders' association and for years was a director of the Sheboygan County fair. For seventeen years he has been one of the trustees of the county asylum for the insane and for sixteen years he has been school clerk.

Mr. Melvin has a son and two daughters, Homer, the son, now operates the home farm.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache; no hawking, snuffling, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.

RIFLE CLUB TEAM TO MEET LAWRENCE SQUAD

A team composed of members of the Appleton Rifle and Pistol club of the National Rifle association will hold a shoot at the Lawrence college pistol team on Thursday, Feb. 10, in Armory G, according to officers of the local club. The club was organized this year under the direction of Lieutenant Helm C. Busner. The college team has been practicing on the Armory range since early in the school year.

GROUNDHOG SAYS—

YES IT'S NICE AND SUNSHINY TODAY, BUT DON'T PUT YOUR OVERCOAT IN MOYH BALLS! WE'RE IN FOR SIX WEEKS MORE OF WINTER. JUST WATCH AND SEE!

MR. GROUNDHOG

Snow, sleet, zero weather and furnace fires will be with us for six more weeks. The ground hog saw his shadow early, and if he were a late sleeper he had plenty of chance to review it later in the day.

But even though winter will come again, people were surprisingly cheerful. "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush" was the prevailing point of view. One spring day on Feb. 2, was worth more than the promise of an early spring.

Clouds early in the morning, about 7 o'clock, looked as if the groundhog would come out to stay. But before 8 o'clock his shadow fairly bounced at him, the sun shone so brightly. So the old weather prophet crawled back in his hole, curled up and went to sleep till the middle of March, when it will be time to think about discarding red flannels and buying straw hats.

ROTARIANS DISCUSS CHANGES IN ZONING

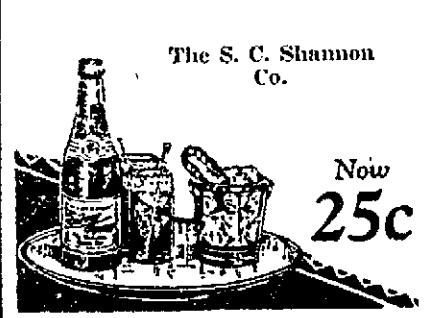

Luncheon Club Hears Reasons Why Planning Board Should Be Upheld

The zoning law and reasons for upholding the zoning boards' decisions were discussed at the weekly meeting of the Rotary club at Hotel Northern, Tuesday noon. Dr. O. P. Fairfield of Lawrence college, member of the zoning board, gave an account of the actions of the board on two petitions recently before it.

He said that the reason the petition for a local business district at the corner of W. Wisconsin-ave and N. Alvin-st had been rejected was because the board did not feel the need for more business districts on Wisconsin-ave at the present time. The reason for refusing to grant the petition

The Cable-Nelson's moderate price a great surprise

To a person seeing and hearing a CABLE-NELSON piano for the first time, its moderate price is a great surprise. When once you see the symmetry of its lines, its perfect proportion and the exquisite beauty of its finish; when once you hear the evenness and sweetness of its liquid tone, you will instinctively price it in your mind at $100 or $200 more than it actually brings. Or, by calling to mind the prices paid by some of your friends or neighbors for their pianos of other makes, you will expect the CABLE-NELSON to be priced from $100 to $200 more than it is. The CABLE-NELSON is the best piano at its price in the entire country, and the piano itself in its own best proof.

for a business district at the corner of S. Cherry and Seymour-sts, he said, was the board considered the section of the city as the future "super residential" district.

D. P. Steinberg made a short address telling how the real estate men felt about the zoning plan. He said they were willing to abide by the decisions of the zoning board. F. F. Wettengel gave a short talk stressing the importance of reserving a section of the city for a new residential district.

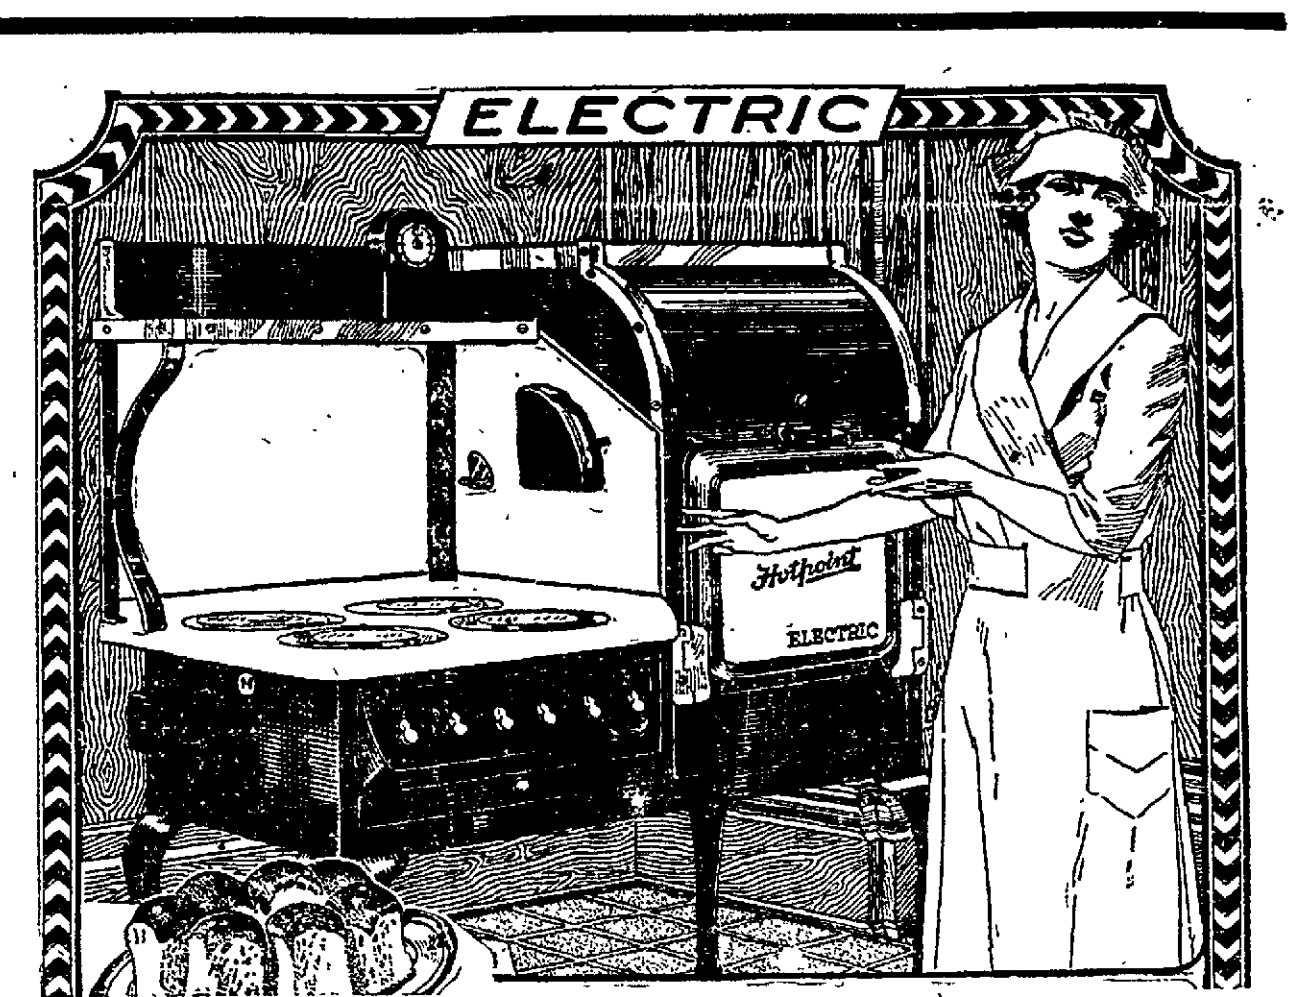

Dr. A. E. Reetor, president of Riverview Golf club presented a proposed plat of the land owned by that club showing the development of the land on the east side of S. Cherry-st. He showed how establishing a local business district on S. Cherry-st would injure this part of the city as a residential district.

Broken Threads

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
To the home of PROF and MOL-LIE ELWELL in Candegville,
Ind., one night in October, 1918, is brought a woman who had fainted on a train. That night she bears twin girls and dies without revealing her name.

The story then moves forward 18 years. The twins, now growing to beautiful womanhood, have been adopted and named MARGARET and ELIZABETH. They are called RUSTY and BETTY.

JIM ELWELL, the son, enlists in the World War. He then discovers that one of the twins loves him.

He is shell-shocked at the Battle of Sedan and at first is reported dead. Finally, however, he is identified in a New York hospital and his mother and father see him and find he is gone that he is like a memory and speech. He is like a living dead man.

Specialists despair of his recovery, believing an operation might be successful and fatal at well.
The day before his parents are to take him home Jim wanders away, and Mollie, Prof, NEELIE
DOWNING, a nurse, and MIKE
HENNEGAN take up the pursuit.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY.

The ride that followed Mollie Elwell was to remember ever afterward as the weirdest experience of her life.
It was a ride in which she rode the gamut of human emotions, it seemed to her from the choking grip of anxiety to the peak of exultant hope and from hope down into the black depths of despair.

The rain had started coming down in torrents again, and the night was lit by occasional lightning flashes.
The downpour against the windows of the taxicab, mingled with the roar of thunder and of traffic, made a tumultuous din and speech had to be pitched high if one wanted to make himself heard.

Mike Henneagan looked for a long time at Mollie as she sat beneath the light in the taxicab's ceiling. As he watched, their car turned into Broadway from Hanover Square.
The muscles of his throat tightened and he began to think.

Mike Henneagan was nobody's fool.
Here was a woman, he was saying to himself, who had stood just about all any woman in the world was capable of standing. First she had been told that her son was dead.
Then she had been notified by the war department that he was alive, and she had found him a human wreck. Now—now even that wreck was lost. Mike began to talk.

"You know Prof," he began in a casual shout that would be heard above the clatter of the rain and the sounds of storm and traffic, "I was born in New York. It happened one morning when I was still very young. It was on April Fool's day, and it was raining—raining geologically."

"My ol' man looked out the window an' the rain stopped. Yep. Then he tied a string on the ol' growler, put a dime in it an' dropped it out of the window."

"Then he called down the rain-pipe to Casey's bartender below.
Two minutes later he got the office—a pull on the string that meant the bartender had heard him sin' had filled up the can."

An' then it began to rain again.
Sufferin' Pat how it did rain! I hope,
Prof, you get the moral of what I'm telling you. Casey's bartender swore it was the rain that flooded the works, but when my ol' man hauled up the can an' saw what he'd caught, he swore that someone had taken advantage of him. You see, it was April Fool's day, as I've been sayin'.
That's why I'm always sad on April Fool's day."

He paused and looked again at Mollie Elwell, who was staring out of the window of the cab.

"Another time," Mike began, but before he could do any more of his chirking up the taxi slowed to a stop. They were in front of police headquarters, and Nellie Downing turned to Prof.

"You an' Mike stay here with Mollie, she said, making ready for a dash through the rain to the shelter of the building. "I'll have a general call sent out, for Jim must have been picked up by this time. He couldn't be on the street very long without attracting the attention of some traffic officer or someone who would turn him over to a policeman."

The door slammed shut behind her as she darted out and across the sidewalk, Mike Henneagan learned forward and tapped Prof Elwell on the knee.

"I'm tellin' you, Prof," he said in a serious tone, "they don't make 'em any finer than that little girl right there. You ought to've seen the way she took care of us guys over in France when we was all gassed up an' shoot up an' crazy an' everything.
Sometimes she'd be on duty for 18 hours—20 hours—at a stretch. I've seen her workin' till she was ready to drop. An' never a word of complaint. She's sure gold, all right, through an' through, Nellie Downing is. Did you ever hear her complain, Prof?"

"I never did," said Prof, earnestly.
"She's all that you say she is. She's a mighty sweet little woman. Mollie and I certainly owe her a lot for what she's done for us. And you too, Mike.
We can never repay you. If it hadn't been for you, Mike, we might never have learned that Jim was alive."

"God grant that he's still alive!"
breathed Mollie in a prayerful whisper. She had drawn apart from the two men, was listening to only half of what they said.

Prof bowed his head for a second
"Mike," he said presently, "tell me—is Nellie Downing in love with Jim?"

Mollie's eyes shut quickly. Her mouth trembled. And Mike pursed up his lips meditatively.

"Well," he said, staring out into the rain, "I don't know as I'm a judge of that. She's been mighty good to him. She's broke about every rule in the hospital the way she's attended to him. She went down to Washington to straighten out his identity, an'
she paid for that out of her own pocket.
You know, the morning she reported to the superintendent in Long Island she was technically on duty the minute she handed over her papers."

"It was irregular, her goin' to Washington, but the supe was a real gentleman. He made a job for me, for instance, when I was down an' out. No,
I couldn't tell you whether she was in love with him. You'll have to judge
for yourself."

"I was irregular, her goin' to Washington, but the supe was a real gentleman. He made a job for me, for instance, when I was down an' out. No,
I couldn't tell you whether she was in love with him. You'll have to judge
for yourself."

Prof looked troubled. "What a shame," he breathed.

"But," said Mike, "the main thing is to find the lad."

"Oh, Prof," Mollie burst out, "do you think we'll find him?"

He patted her arm. "Of course.
We're bound to find him. He can't run around loose without being picked up sooner or later by some policeman."

"But will we find him alive?"

"Now Mollie, don't worry."

"But I can't help worrying. Oh, Jim, Jim!" She turned away again to stare out the window.

Nellie Downing came racing through the rain. She climbed into the cab.
"We're going to the Planet building first to pick up Jack Nevin.
Meanwhile he's having inquiries made at every hospital. He talked to the officer in charge here and they're going to work their heads off to help us.
Oh, I'm sure Jack will be a big help."

"You say," asked Prof, "that this man Nevin left a leg over in France?"

"Yes. And he's got a Congressional Medal of Honor, too. He's just a wonderful fellow and a fine newspaperman. He said he would help us all night if necessary."

A few minutes afterward the cab stopped in front of the Planet building. A man moved out from the shelter of the doorway. He was hobbling on a crutch, but he moved quickly and surely. Mike Henneagan got out of the cab and helped him in.

"This," said Nellie Downing, "is Jack Nevin."

Nevin smiled. "Glad to know you all." To Prof he said, "Tell the driver to take us to the Metropolitan hospital."

"The hospital?" Mollie Elwell cried.
"Now don't be alarmed. I've been asking questions. It seems a man was brought in at the Met hospital.
Brought over from Broadway and Fifteenth street an hour or so ago.
Seems he fell off a street car. They say he isn't hurt to any extent but he is in a dazed state and they can't get him to speak. He was dressed in a gray suit and answers the description I got of your son from Miss Downing here."

"The fact that they can't get him to talk seems a pretty good reason for thinking it's Jim Elwell. He could have reached Fifteenth street by a car from the foot of Broadway."

"He's boarded cars with us several times down there," said Prof.

Nevin turned down his coat collar.
He was a blond young man with wavy hair and pale, finely-chiseled features.
One of his legs was gone from a point halfway between knee and hip.

He spoke to Nellie Downing. "Seems good to see you again," he said. To Prof and Mollie he explained: "You see, Miss Downing was very good to me."

"She's been good to a lot of us,"
said Mike Henneagan.

"I guess you're right, brother. Did you get a bit of it over there, too?"

"Enough," said Mike.

Nevin went on to explain something about the procedure in street accidents. "Very often the police get the reports of accidents, especially on the streets, before the injured reach the hospital. In fact, it is the police ambulance usually that gets to the scene first."

He informed Mike that, yes, he was a reporter. "I used to be what they called a leg man. I guess you'd call me only a half leg man now," ruefully looking at his amputated limb. "I'm doing rewrite most of the time now.
The city editor let me cover this, though, when I put it up to him that friends of mine were involved."

"Miss Downing," he went on, "tells me your son was shell-shocked at Sedan. I was through the Meuse-Argonne campaign myself. In fact, it was in the windup of it that I lost my leg. I was in a hospital in France when the Armistice was signed. That's where I met Miss Downing in January. She was doing postwar duty."

His words were drowned in the roar of an elevated train overhead.

Mollie Elwell shuddered at the sound. Prof peered through the window.

Jack Nevin looked sharply at Mollie. He said to Prof: "When we reach the hospital I think it would be best if Miss Downing and I went in first."
He spoke very quietly, but Jim's mother's face went white as a sheet.

The search is a long way from being over yet, and Mollie and Prof Elwell are to face another tragedy.

Appleton Chapter of the Rainbow Veterans division, meeting Monday night at Armory G, selected Wednesday evening, March 2, at the date for the annual banquet. A committee consisting of Harvey Kitter, Frank Fries, Ed Lutz, Robert Merkel and Lothar Graef was appointed to complete arrangements. The committee will hold its first meeting at 8 o'clock Friday evening. Members of the chapter and their wives will attend the banquet.

A committee also was named to determine the desirability of a cottage at Brighton beach for use as a chapter cottage. Ed Lutz, Herbert Gambisky, Lothar Graef are on the committee.
They will meet Saturday afternoon at the beach and go through the cottage under consideration. If the committee finds that the cottage will answer the purposes of the chapter, it will recommend that the structure be moved to the chapter lot.

An invitation from the Minneapolis chapter to attend its annual convention Feb. 19 at Lexington hotel, Minneapolis, was read, and several members of the local chapter indicated their intentions to attend.

Appleton veterans attending the meeting Monday night held a reunion

PRESIDENT LEADS THE WAY

President Coolidge, in addressing the twelfth regular meeting of the business organization of the government, laid down two propositions with regard to national defense as defining the policy of his administration. First, he declared his approval of national preparedness, adding that he had a full appreciation of his responsibilities as commander-in-chief of the army and navy in the premises. In the second place, he declared his opposition to competition in armament, and to any course for the United States that could be construed in this light. On this statement he said: "As a nation we are advocates of peace. Not only should we refrain from any act which might be construed as calling for competition in armament, but rather should we bend every effort to eliminate forever any such competition. We cannot and should not divorce our national interests in this direction from the interests of other nations."

Notwithstanding all that may be said by those intensively nationalistic, or by those who are patently jingoists, in favor of substantially augmenting the navy and of increasing the national defense, we think public opinion on the whole will coincide with the president's view. The people of this country believe that if the world is to progress toward disarmament and peace, it must be led by the United States. This country alone occupies a position of natural economic and political isolation from which it can initiate and carry forward such a program without periling its security. For this reason and because of the nature of its institutions and its traditions, it can perhaps lean backward in its opposition to competitive armament and countenance temporarily an unbalancing of the five-five-three naval ratio in order to impress upon the rest of the world its determination to find ways of peace. A contrary policy might prove to be deplorable, and disastrous to the cause of peace at a time when movements are on foot in Europe looking to a reduction of armament and better international accord.

We cannot see where we are taking any chances for the next few years in following the president's advice. As head of the military establishment, he should be a fairly reliable judge of its state and its sufficiency for present and prospective requirements. We prefer to accept his judgment because the motives which lie back of it, and the policy it is intended to serve, are those of general disarmament and world peace. The United States must encourage and promote these ends. It is we, submit, its highest national and international duty. War must somehow be minimized and ultimately banished. Nations and peoples simply will not stand for this human curse and the back-breaking economic burden it imposes. It is our duty to lead the procession, and the president's way is the right way.

CONSERVING OUR GAME

Governor Zimmerman proposes to hold a conference of the governors of Minnesota, Iowa, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin to discuss unification of conservation plans and legislation. It is an excellent suggestion. A great deal may be accomplished for the husbanding of the natural resources of these states and for the preservation of their wild life by the adoption of uniform policies, provided it can be brought about. Open and closed seasons on game and fish could be made to coincide, including limitations on bags, the right of shipment from one state to another, etc. Much could be done, in particular, for the protection of deer. Indeed, the time has come when the northern states ought to consider whether a change of attitude toward deer hunting should not be made, and the restrictions made so strong as to permit the shooting of only a very limited number of deer. Governor Zimmerman presents this question when he says: "There is now a strong movement in Africa encouraging hunting expeditions to use cameras instead of firearms. Why should we let Africa bring civilization to us? We should adopt some such care in our northern states. To each man that would like to kill a wild animal, there are fifty who would rather photograph it in action," and he might have added even see it in action.

The governor has stated conservatively the proportion of those who would like to conserve wild life to those who would like to destroy it. It is probably one hundred to one, but thus far the killers' wishes and rights have had the most consideration. We ought now to ponder whether the reduction in wild life and the constantly increasing hazards to which it is subjected, do not recommend that major emphasis be placed on its conservation. The governors proposal for an interstate conference cannot fail to bring to public attention these questions more forcefully. Good will be accomplished in this respect, if nothing else, and it is not unlikely that a specific program might be agreed upon that would be of value in the conservation of wild life in all of the states.

MCADOO SPILLS THE BEANS

William Gibbs McAdoo is in "dutch" with the high-steppers of the Democratic party. Just at the time when the leaders were nursing the hope of a united party in the next national conference and were carefully grooming Al Smith for the nomination on a pure and unadulterated one hundred per cent wet platform. Mr. McAdoo springs a dry speech on the country. It was a heartless thing for Mr. McAdoo to do, unless it is by this method he means to convey to the party that he considers his own candidacy hopeless and, having nothing to gain or lose, intends to speak his independence.

The resourceful son-in-law of Mr. Wilson has done more than this. He has driven an entering wedge into Democratic harmony that will not be easy to remove, and that may split the party as widely and as badly as it did at the memorable New York convention in 1924. It was a terrible thing to happen, and the culprit will be set upon by the masters of Democratic destiny, in the large and hopefully wet expanses of the East. The representatives of New York, Maryland and New Jersey in the senate are having a conniption fit and are vowing vengeance that would frighten a lesser heart than that of the man who put the first tubes under the Hudson river.

But what has Mr. McAdoo done? He has offended the wets and pleased the dries, which is his constitutional and political right. True, the Democrats claim to be the orthodox wet vehicle, just as they try to make out the Republicans as dry, but neither has a monopoly on either side of this question. There are plenty of Republican wets as well as Democratic dries. All are entitled to an opinion, and to voice that opinion. Before they nominate Al Smith for president, the Democratic chieftains may well ask themselves whether the farm membership in their party is more dry than wet. Possibly if they consider the matter carefully and conscientiously, they may arrive at the conclusion before 1928 that prohibition is the one issue that ought to be kept out of the 1928 campaign. As a matter of fact, Mr. McAdoo may be performing a signal service for his party by serving advance notice that an attempt to nominate a wet candidate could reap no satisfactory result.

Of course, it is a little annoying to observe the glee in the Republican camp over Mr. McAdoo's speech, but the Democratic brethren should swallow their pride and content themselves with making a dry face. It may sweeten the pill some to keep in mind that Al Smith has been growing in popularity and is considerably stronger than he was three years ago, provided of course they have ever seriously meant to run him for president. If not, no harm is done. In fact, we do not think any harm has been done in any event, because we have never believed the Democrats could get back into power on a wet platform. It will take something more than that to restore them to the good graces of the electorate.

APROSEXIA VULGARIS

Buying theater tickets I underestimated the number in my party and had to return to the box office for more. Then I tried to pocket the tickets and found just received at the ticket window. Aprosexia vulgaris (ordinary absent-mindedness) is sometimes an expensive affliction—many a victim of it walks blithely away leaving tidy sums in change without a claimant. I suppose there is a psychological explanation for it, which I will leave to our regular psychologist. All I know is that long years before I screwed up courage to go about hatless I was wont to forget my lid when making a call. I tremendously discomfited it the oversight was discovered by some one who would come running after me with my hat.

Right now I am unable to recollect the fancy name which the familiar advertising has popularized for foul breath, although a thousand correspondents have interpreted it for my information. I wanted to draw an analogy between the ridiculous use of that term for bad breath and my own little joke in calling ordinary absent-mindedness by the ponderous term. But all I can think of is anosmia, which means loss or absence of the sense of smell. But never mind. Wouldn't it be calamitous to the antiseptic business if anosmia became epidemic?

Nostalgia keeps recurring, but that is homesick ness. Well, to perdition with it—I have always wished I could forget that word anyway. It makes me so tired when some simple correspondent insists on translating it into ordinary language for me.

There are at least three kinds of absent-mindedness. First, the normal state of persons of great intellect, second, the intellectual endowment, as per above. Second, the functional inattention of the child with adenoids or other obstruction of the upper breathing passages. Third, the fixed or abnormal absent-mindedness of persons with disease affecting the brain.

Dr. Arnold Loran, in his book on "Defective Memory and Absent Mindedness" (F. A. Davis Co., Philadelphia) ascribes considerable influence to the state of some of the ductless glands in the causation of absent-mindedness and poor memory, and he tells of some few cases in which marked improvement was obtained through the treatment with ductless gland extracts.

It is debatable whether the impaired hearing which so commonly goes with adenoids or enlarged tonsils, and the general lowered vitality which in evitably occurs from the prolonged interference with oxygenation of the blood is not the sole explanation for the dullness, inattentiveness and absent-mindedness which characterizes the behavior of the child with this handicap.

Another good suggestion of Dr. Loran's for the forgetfulness of mature or prematurely aged adults particularly is an adequate iodine ration. He does not put it in these terms, but he points out that iodine stimulates or enlivens the thyroid gland activity and that gland has something to do with memory.

As I have often recommended, any one (who is not affected with scrofula or otherwise in need of medical care) may take one drop of ordinary tincture of iodine in glassful of water once daily for a month in each of the four seasons of the year, or once or twice a week throughout the year, as a suitable iodine ration.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Nothing Very Nice

What have you to say about matamel put up by the Newton laboratories, bloofed made in Riverdale, Halsey's anodyne tablets put out by Halsey laboratories and Dr. Coffee cararrh and deafness medicine (Mrs. S. W. E.)

Answer—All I can say right now is my lip is cracked.

Two Uncomfortable Spots

Please don't stamp me for it, but kindly send me advice on neuritis especially in hip and elbow. I have it mostly in the winter, rarely in the summer. (A. N. H.)

Answer—I have conducted an exhaustive search for the stamp but with no luck. For 2 cents I might have told you a lot. I'll tell you something for nothing. Seriously and sincerely, not sarcastically, I cannot surmise what your trouble may be. Certainly no form of neuritis I know about would manifest itself in the way you describe.

Why Not Hoopsnake Oil

Is there any virtue in the use of rattlesnake oil preparation for deafness? (E. C. F.)

Answer—It is just the silly superstition which has been commercially exploited by certain mail order firms that market concoctions purporting to be rattlesnake oil. Last April a fraud order was issued by the postoffice department depriving one such firm from the use of the mails. The rattlesnake lends itself to popular legend, superstition and credulity. What marvelous things the traveling charlatan and the mail order faker could do with the hoopsnake, if he had a mind to turn his hand to this resourceful member of the reptilian family.

JUST IN THE NICK OF TIME

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

A DUTCH SATIRE

On January 3, 1927, the Alfred A. Knopf company published a book in English that was first issued in The Netherlands 70 years ago. When a novel can weather the storms of 70 years it has some elements of universality and is worthy of attention.

The book is "Max Havelaar," by a person who called himself "Multatuli." His real name was Edward Douwes Dekker and his book became a kind of Dutch "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Published in 1859, it called attention to the sorrows of the natives of Java under Dutch rule much in the same way in which Harriet Beecher Stowe had described the life of the American negro eight years before. The Dutch government tried to ignore the book and the anonymous author was treated to the usual abuse in circles that for political reasons supported the government in its colonial policy, but he became enormously popular. So much so that he was called the second European writer of the nineteenth century and the number of his imitators was legion.

But the same thing happened to "Max Havelaar" that has happened to "Uncle Tom's Cabin." D. H. Lawrence tells about it in an introduction to the present translation. Acclaimed by the millions as a great book, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is regarded with contempt by the literati. It was a novel with a purpose and the abuses it aimed to correct have been righted; hence it has lost its reason for being read.

And that attitude toward "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is for the most part reasonably correct. It is not great literature and it is not timeless, as all great literature must be. And there are very many cultured, Hollanders who feel that way about "Max Havelaar." They argue that it created a false picture of the Dutch colonies, and that it was a great Dutch classic. They argue that it created a false picture of the Dutch colonies, and that it was a great Dutch classic.

But D. H. Lawrence points out that this is a big mistake. He holds that "Max Havelaar" was not really a book with a purpose but that its author, Edward Douwes Dekker, merely the "purpose" into the story merely to get the book across. In other words, he was not primarily interested in the sorrows of the people of Java but in the mental and spiritual limitations of the Dutch bourgeoisie—and by implications in the bourgeois of all countries and of all times. But feared that such a book, as satire, would not "go over," so he sugar coated it with "purpose," laughing in his sleeve as he did so.

As a picture of life in Java in 1850 it no longer has any value and may justly be placed beside "Uncle Tom's Cabin." But as a satire on the bourgeoisie it is of universal significance and is timeless. In that respect it has exactly the same appeal that the books of Dean Swift have. We are no longer interested in the political quarrels that gave occasion to Swift's immortal satires but we read the Swift books because they were a satire on human nature, which is the same today as it was 200 years ago.

In the words of D. H. Lawrence: "The book is a hell rather than a comfort. The jam of pity was put on to get the pill down. Our fathers and grandfathers licked the jam off. We can still go on taking the pill, for the social constipation is as bad as ever."

It is rather a curious thing that this great satire should for many years have been considered a novel with a purpose rather than a satire. The satire is plain to be seen on the surface of the novel. In the very first chapter the author paints a deliberate picture of the mental and spiritual limitations of a Dutch coffee merchant that might have been written today about that type of person anywhere in the world. And it is done in the first person, which makes it all the more effective. And so on through the book.

The new translation and publication of this Dutch satire is an event in the publishing world. The present generation of readers should hasten to make the acquaintance of a great book.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York — It used to be Eight avenue.

When you mentioned it you dropped the final "it," spoke through one corner of the mouth and wagged a left hand, after the fashion of vaudeville toughs.

And Eighth avenue was as tough as it sounded.

It was sort of a peak of a fan-shaped section of the old "Hell's Kitchen" where gang funerals were brewed and in a day when gangsters used their guns more on each other than on innocent passers-by. But times have changed. The toughest part of the "Kitchen" now echoes to the unamused street cries of the pudicest peddlers.

And Eighth avenue has started to live down its reputation.

In fact, like the gamblers with a past, who went into the gold camps, it wants to change its name.

The new subway is to blame. Night and day the ground hogs burrow beneath its surface and above the ground, in the frosty cold and lazy wagons come and go heaped high with rocks.

Eighth avenue will go the way of Seventh. As the new subway line rears completion in the course of years skyscrapers and natty business places will come and it will take its place among the business streets.

Recently, when suggestions for a new name were invited, at least a dozen wrote in that it was just about time that New York had a Main street.

That would be a final blow to the Manhattanites who have delighted in poking fun at all the Main streets of America.

As it stands now, long since free from the gangster life, Eighth avenue is a highway of contrasts.

From the time it twists past the border of the old section of Greenwich Village and plunges toward the uptown belt it runs for a distance as a welter of antiquated looking stores, tawdry clothing stores and such. Suddenly a second-hand district appears to be followed by a Greek quarter where "fence" clubs display their Greek letters from the window panes.

Again it tumbles into the outskirts of the Broadway playbill, picking up a medicine show, a few cheap movies, but landing of a new day when Broadway will have overflowed its banks and swept attractive theater buildings westward.

posers the ideal home life unhampered by those traditions but I cannot, and even hesitate to guess at it," she continued. "Mrs. Ellen H. Richards, the founder of the home economics left us this definition and we are trying to live up to her commission.

"I should like to see women freed from the clutter, from the care of useless trifle-brac, from the care of too many kitchen utensils, from the old standard of housekeeping which made one woman afraid to have an other woman discover a speck of dust or a cobweb in her house.

"I should like to see such simplicity in furnishings as is in keeping with the income so that we might get rid of that awful boy of 'keeping up with the Joneses' and being forever behind on paying our bills. I should like to see self-expression and comfort in the household furnishings rather than slavish following of prevailing styles.

"The ideal home life of today takes into account the furnishings of the house for comfort, convenience and of being cared for beauty and association."

NOT ALL ROSES

"We are fast kidding ourselves of the idea that 'they live happily ever after,'" Miss Dane asserted. "That statement has been a real source of trouble since it did not live happily at all times they found they had made a mistake in the choice of a companion. We must realize that life is not all happiness and that a good life has to be brought with the materials at hand and can only be accomplished by intelligent effort on the part of all.

"It is good to note also the passing of the old idea that women must choose the best man for a career, 'where her brain and talents can have adequate expression. Many women of ability are finding that their homes and families demand the best of their intelligence.

"I believe the ideal home life of today is found where it is dominated by usefulness and affection and an idea of helpfulness and fair play. It is a little democracy, the first social group in which the young of the human race comes. Its power for good or ill is almost limitless. It is a training school for all, father, mother, children.

"As we come to appreciate the statement made by another pioneer home economist 'that the satisfaction and contentment that make life worth living seems to be found for all people in the founded things, health, love, children, friends, a degree of success among their fellow-men' we shall turn to home life with a larger appreciation for its spiritual values which after all are the most significant values of life."

STAGE AND SCREEN

THE WISE GUY PLAYS A SUCKER

Stepping from the stage into the movies is said to entail numerous adjustments, not alone in make-up, screen technique, or working hours, but it often brings radical changes in the character of parts an actor has been accustomed to playing. In the case of W. C. Fields, for example, whose latest Paramount starring vehicle, "The Potters," arrives at Fischers Appleton Theatre on Friday for a 3 day run, the erstwhile portrayer of confidence men has been converted into an innocent "come-on."

"In my first picture, 'Sally of the Sawdust,'" says Fields, "they let me cut up at my old tricks, but since then I've been cast as the innocent object of my former villainies. In 'The Old Army Game,' 'So's Your Old Man' and now in 'The Potters,' my role is that of the dumb guy in the brown derby who always gets it in the neck.

"I tried to figure it out. They told me I got over best in my sympathetic moments—that faded-out march down the road at the close of 'Sally of the Sawdust' for example. I said I had no hankering to be a second Warfield, that I merely desired to make people laugh; Tommy, Meighan and the other boys were welcome to the drama. But I found that when you leave the footlights and get before a camera you have to change a lot of your notions about what is and what isn't.

"Turning from the methods of the 'wise guy,' however, to those of the 'good thing,' has been a difficult task. From slick and smooth to soft and sappy means an entire mental readjustment, not only in the aim of one's comedy effects, but in the manner of

REMOVE ELECTRIC WIRE FROM HOUSE

An electric wire leading to an arc light at the corner of Drew and Summer-sts broke shortly after 5:30 Tuesday afternoon and fell across a house. It was removed by members of the fire department a few minutes later. Fear that the house might be ignited should the "live end" of the wire come in contact with the structure caused the residents to turn in the alarm to the fire department.

MORE MEN LAID OFF BY STREET DEPARTMENT

Several employees of the street department were laid off Tuesday because of lack of work. The men who were kept on the job are repairing the snow removing equipment and getting it in readiness for the next storm. One of the department trucks is being overhauled in the city garage on S. Walnut-st. Another crew of men was working Tuesday removing ice ruts from street intersections.

attaining those effects. Making you laugh at the hard-boiled three card monte man who is trifling a sucker is one thing—and not so easy—but making you laugh at the sucker is something else. In "The Potters," I get me for everybody but my eye teeth. On the stage I'd have played the sucker, but in the movies I have to make you laugh at poor, old humiliated Pa Potter.

"Still, my stuff seems to be appreciated by the public and I suppose that's the final test of whether you're doing the right thing. There's a little kick too in being on the side of the misguiding. I keep thinking of the old song: 'The more of life I see—the more it seems to me, that the wise guy is the good thing after all.' Maybe I'm that."

LIVELY, AMUSING SCREEN FARCE

One of the most amusing, lively and high-stepping farce comedies the local screen has seen in many weeks is "Oh, What a Night!" at the New Bijou today and Thursday. The farcical situations and "mediants" are acted and directed to their full laughing value which means an evening of high entertainment. It will remain for 2 days and is well worth anyone's time to see.

While Bob Brady is in the producer's apartment writing a new last act for his play, a burglar cracks the safe, which he finds well stocked with money. He proceeds to get busy, and when he sees the string of pearls he had stolen disappearing down the baby's neck, he thinks the baby has swallowed them and kidnaps the child. In the hue and cry that follows, Brady is accused by the girl he had just met that night, and with whom he is fallen in love, of stealing her pearls and kidnapping the child.

He breaks away from the police to catch the real thief and prove his innocence. The girl now takes his side when apparently everyone else believes in his guilt. Out of all the wildly exciting and humorous events of the evening he finds the "truth" wanted material for the new last act of his play.

APPLETON LEGION MEN TO TAKE PART IN STATE MEETING

Five Legionnaires from This City Will Speak at Midwinter Conference

Five Appleton Legionnaires, Marshall Graff, L. Hugo Keller, H. L. Plummer, C. O. Baetz, and Erik L. All Shades Of Blue Feature Color For Sport Clothes At Palm Beach; Striped Sweaters, Jersey Outfits Reign Supreme In The Realms Of Sport

MRS. STOKES LETT

MRS. MALCOLM MEACHAM

HORTENSE CHATILLON

MRS. WARNER JONES

MRS. WILLIAM J. HYDE

BY BETSY SCHUYLER
PALM BEACH — Your most standard critic could not long doubt the supremacy of the sweater and the jersey outfit if she once made a tour of the beach and the golf courses here.
Nor could she, assuming this critic to be a woman, resist blue any longer. True she might say it is treacherous, and the idea that every shade of blue is becoming to a blue-eyed woman is the most erroneous premise ever established, that blue is a cold color and that it lacks sophistication—she could pick all the flaws she wanted to with blue, but in the end she would have to admit that every smart woman is wearing it.
At Palm Beach the sport dress reigns supreme for day. It is appropriate for the out-of-door life, and is seen here at its very best. Where is the average Palm Beach wardrobe as at least two-thirds white to one-third colored, I believe color is handled here more expertly this year than ever before.
STRIPES OF COLORS
Many a white sport dress has stripes of colors, or embroidered or printed borders which add to the interest. The cowboy kerchief of printed silk, manipulated in any number of tricky ways brings in a jazzy note.
The tennis outfit Mrs. Warner Jones wore at the Everglades shows the neckerchief in its simplest form—just knotted casually under the chin. I have seen others tied on the shoulder, about the hips in a gypsy, or not tied at all, just wound about and she would have to admit that every smart woman is wearing it.
For golf, no outfit is more popular than the type worn by Hortense Chatillon—a white flannel shirt with several "box" pleats in front, and a round-necked sweater with shaded stripes in rainbow colors. The shiny white felt hat and the sport shoes with their bands of tan are the right note in accessories.

DELICATE AS COBWEBS
Never have I seen such lovely sweaters as I have seen here the past week. Some are as delicate as cobwebs, and knitted into patterns that look like hand-made lace. Others are of beaver wool with horizontal stripes of silk in colors, or with metal gauze cleverly inserted.
With a white crepe de chine sport shirt I saw a lovely sweater of soft wool in stripes of rose, green and yellow, and the hat was a tiny green cloche.
A very unusual effect was achieved by Mrs. Jacques de Wolfe—her skirt was of pearl gray crepe de chine pleated, and the jumper was of wool dyed in a darker shade of gray, her gray felt hat was another shade that came in just between the jumper and skirt. These ombre effects as they are called, are very much the vogue.

PRINTED SILK SKIRT
I saw Mrs. William J. Hyde of New York in a printed silk skirt which were small flecks of red, green and blue, with a navy blue crepe de chine blouse with a row of buttons down the side front, and a hat that was without doubt the largest one in this stronghold of the large chapeau.
Mrs. Malcolm Meacham, always a delight to the eye, has been seen in faultless attire. She is lovely in the rose shades, such as she is wearing in the photograph, a delicate pink band with a deeper rose, and a becoming little pink felt hat.
Simplicity itself is Mrs. Stokes Lett, formerly Mona Walwright, who is on the tennis court every day by eleven. She was featuring the new blue the other morning in a blue hat, blue skirt and a sweater of blue

WHAT DOES DAD GET?

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

His children had always had everything he was able to give them from the time when they greeted him with shouts of "What did you bring, Daddy?" to the years later on when motors and college were taken pretty much for granted.
The greater the need the harder he worked. His shoes in the early days had been cracked from too much polishing. He was always planning to get things for himself but a new suit would likely as not be side-tracked by a case of sickness, and a much-needed vacation would be stopped before it started because the bills were bigger than usual.
He had always made ends meet by stretching himself across the gap. He seldom worried his wife with money troubles and was known as a "good provider."
Eventually he prospered. Slowly at first, but with a little working capital he was able to forge ahead.
He did not indulge himself. He felt guilty even now if he discarded a pair of shoes that were not quite split through. But he was thankful that the demands of a modern family of growing children could be met without embarrassment.
Twenty years of doing without so that his family could be comfortable had aged him. He wanted no thanks. The children were grateful in their way, but his real reward lay in duty gone. He had given each one of them his chance in life, a heritage of health and knowledge. He had had to hard time growing up himself. He had spared them that.
They had their own friends and interests, and one was married. Their parents saw little of them now. Home was chiefly a repair station.
Well, it didn't matter! Most boys and girls were that way. He and his wife were only fifty. They could travel and play a bit and make up for lost time.
Suddenly his wife died. There followed three of the loneliest years he had ever known.
He met a very fine woman of forty and married her, eventually.
And what did those children say about it? They said, "Father, how could you be so selfish? Why could you not think of us?"
And others said, "Isn't it like a man to give his second wife luxuries the first wife saved for?"
I say he did exactly right.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

"My goodness, something's surely wrong," said Scouty as they moved along. "This thing we're on knows how to sail." And then they saw a head rise high and shoot some water towards the sky. Of course the Tynimies promptly knew that they were on a whale.
The water that had spouted out, went up real high, then turned about and splashed down on the Tynimies and got them soaking wet. Said Scouty, "We're in danger now. I wish we could escape somehow. Our boat's still dragging on behind, but too far out to get."
The whale picked up a lot of speed and Coppy said, "We surely need to keep our wits about us to that none of us will slip." They braced their feet and held on tight and Mister Whale swayed left and right. "Course anyone can realize it was a dangerous trip.
Once Coppy slipped and nearly fell, but Coppy luckily heard him yell, and grabbed him tight around the waist and held him to his feet. Said he, "You'd best hang to my hand. We're too far out to swim to land, so falling in the water now would be far from a treat."
"I'm going to have a cold, I'll bet," said Scouty. "Cause I'm soaking wet. We never should have landed on this whale while out at sea." And Coppy snapped, "You can't blame us and there's no sense to make a fuss. We don't know what will happen so we'll have to wait and see."
The whale moved faster through the foam. The Tynimies wished that they were home, but everyone just kept real still and fought off spells of fright. They saw the sun go slowly down. The sky turned red and blue and brown, and everyone then realized 'twas drawing close to night.
(The Tynimies get a good ducking in the next story.)

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if you are a hair sufferer. It is a natural, so to speak, s t r a n g e gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use for only 75 cents. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.
While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

"Wait," Faith begged him, pressing his fingers into her temples as she concentrated her over-tought brain on the problem. "I think I've come to the same conclusion you have. We'll take it for granted that this strap has something to do with the man who made the queer footprints. The toe half of the shoe, all of the light shoe, she repeated to herself musingly. "Oh, I'm sure I'm right, Bob. The man was a cripple, of course. All of the foot-prints were the same. That couldn't be an accident, could it? She looked at him appallingly, with excitement burning in her great brown eyes.
"Doh, the man who killed your uncle was a cripple, a man with a wooden leg. That bit of strap came from the contrivance that fastened the wooden leg to the knee, or where the jointed his flesh-and-blood leg. The smell of sweat—the narrowness of it—Churchill. I simply played a hunch in going back to the scene of the crime. I think I'll keep quiet about it for a while. I want to have a talk with Cherry. Has it occurred to you that she, having been Uncle Ralph's private secretary, will know a great deal about his correspondence? She might know if there was any evidence, in his correspondence or from things he told her, that he had had an enemy whose hatred was strong enough to cause him to plot Uncle Ralph's death? I'm going to play a lone hand—with you, of course, as chief thinker for the combine," he smiled at her fondly. "until I see what he can unearth. All Churchill can think of at present is a defense or unpremeditated, justifiable homicide. I want to have something very real and definite before I go to him with a theory. In the meantime, there is something both of us can do."

"I know," Faith nodded. "We can keep our eyes peeled for cripples. A man with one leg considerably shorter than the other, due to an injury in war, for instance, would make foot-prints like that, wouldn't he?"
"He would," Bob agreed, grimly.

I. B. Club Girls Plan Tea Series

A series of teas similar to the "vanishing luncheons" of the women of the church were planned at a meeting of the I. B. club of the First Methodist church at a meeting Tuesday night at the church. The purpose of the affairs will be to make money to acquaint the members of the club. Hostesses will ask those girls they know the least rather than their special friends. The president, Miss Dorothy Fenton, will start the series with a luncheon for prospective hostesses at her home in a few weeks. The membership committee will apportion groups so that some members will not receive many invitations and others none.

An appropriation was made to equip the small stage for amateur dramatics at the church. Curtains, drops and flies will be purchased by a committee to be appointed by the president this week. Plans were made for a home made candy booth at the spring festival of the church the first Tuesday in April.

Miss Jean Jackson was in charge of the program for the evening. She told of a trip around the world she made last year and showed things to the club she purchased on her journey. Miss Esther Miller was in charge of the devotion. She based her discussion on Bruce Barton's book, "The Man Nobody Knows."

Miss Ethel Harrison was chairman of the supper committee. About 40 members of the club were present.

INVITE YOUNG PEOPLE TO BE AT PROGRAM

All young people of Appleton and any other persons who may be interested are invited to attend a program which has been planned by the Star League of Appleton to be given at 6:30 Sunday evening at the Emanuel Evangelical church. The program is in charge of the council which is representatives of the president and two representatives of each young people society of the Protestant churches in the city.

E. Smith is to be the speaker at the program. A men's quartet from First Baptist church will sing and Miss Annette Post of Memorial Presbyterian church will sing a solo. A xylophone solo will be played by Mr. Werner of the First Reformed church. Other churches represented in the league are First Congregational, First Methodist and German Methodist.

F. R. A. WILL BE HOST AT OPEN PARTY

Fraternal Reserve association will hold an open card party on Feb. 15 at 614 Myre hall. It was decided at a meeting of the organization Tuesday night in Gil Myse hall. Miss Eva Engel was appointed chairman of a committee to arrange for the party. Schafkopf, bridge and dice will be played.

A social and dance has been planned for the first time in March. Peter Christ is in charge of arrangements. The business meeting of the association will be held the second meeting of the March, and the dance will take place of the business meeting on the first Tuesday, it was decided.

Wenzel Hassman is attending the meeting of the supervising council of the Fraternal Reserve association which opened Wednesday and will continue through Thursday at Oshkosh. Mr. Hassman was elected delegate to the annual meeting at the convention of the association last July at Wausau.

REELECT ALL OFFICERS OF RELIEF CLUB

All officers of the St. Joseph Ladies Aid society were reelected at the annual meeting Tuesday afternoon in St. Joseph hall. Mrs. Louise Lang is president of the society; Mrs. Joseph Jones, vice president; Mrs. Charles Feuerstein, secretary and Mrs. C. A. Hipp, treasurer. Members of the relief committee are: first ward, Mrs. A. Pfefferle and Mrs. Wenzel Laugenberg; second and third wards, Mrs. Joseph Jones and Mrs. John Smith; fifth and sixth wards, Mrs. C. A. Feuerstein, Mrs. Joseph Schreiter and Mrs. J. Theisen.

The Rev. Pacificus Raith, spiritual director of the organization, gave a talk on charity and complimented the women on the work they have been doing. About 30 members were present. Plans were made for the next of the series of open card parties to be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the parish hall. Bridge, plump sack and schafkopf will be played. Officers are in charge of arrangements. After the business meeting, a social and cards was enjoyed. Prizes were won by Mrs. Nellie Versteegen, Mrs. Hipp, Mrs. Fred Stoffel and Mrs. Feuerstein.

SOCIAL UNION TO SERVE DINNER

Plans for two pre-Easter activities to be given by the Social union of First Methodist church were discussed at the monthly business meeting Tuesday afternoon at the church. Captains of the various companies of the union gave their reports of the month's work.

It was decided to serve a Lenten dinner at the church on March 11 and plans were made for a pre-Easter sale, to be called "The House Beautiful." The sale will be held April 4 and will include articles for the home. Fifty ladies attended the meeting. Members of Company E, Mrs. J. R. Denyer, captain, were hostesses at the meeting.

CLUB SECTION WILL SPONSOR MASQUE BALL

A masque ball will be given by the recreation department of Appleton Womans club on Friday evening, Feb. 25, it was decided at a meeting of Sports council of the club Tuesday evening at the clubhouse. Arrangements for the party will be made by the group.

Two open card parties will be sponsored by the council within the next few months for the purpose of making money to carry on the work of the group. The vocational guidance conference to be sponsored by the Business and Professional Womans club with the cooperation of the high schools, Sports council, and other groups, was discussed. A definite program has not been decided for the conference. A report of the budget committee was made by Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, chairman.

Supper was served by the Rainbow troop of the American Girl Scouts association. Miss Venies Fellows was in charge. Fifteen members of the council were present.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Final plans for a dinner dance to be held Friday evening at Guild hall were completed at the meeting of St. Agnes' guild of All Saints' church Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. H. Moore, 122 N. Union-st. The dinner will be served at 6:30 followed by dancing and bridge. The party will be for all adult members of the church. Manser's orchestra will furnish music. The next meeting of the guild will be held Tuesday, Feb. 8 at the home of Mrs. J. L. Johns, 905 E. Alton-st.

U. W. Prom Will Be Dry If Ballard Has Own Way

There will be no liquor at the Junior prom of the University of Wisconsin which will take place in the Capitol at Madison, Feb. 4, if C. D. Ballard, recently appointed superintendent of public property has his way. Mr. Ballard has written letters to the members of the committee in charge of arrangements for the prom advising the men that he will be on hand to enforce the prohibition law.

Mr. Ballard states that under Chapter 35, Laws of Wisconsin, it is his duty to safeguard public property and to arrest with or without warrants any persons violating any law within or around said property. Mr. Ballard's letter to one of the committee men follows:

"I am informed that you are one of the committee who has charge of arrangements for the coming Junior Prom which is to take place in the Capitol on February 4, 1927.

You are advised that under Chapter 33, Laws of Wisconsin, it becomes my duty as superintendent of public property to safeguard said property, and also to arrest with or without warrant any person violating any law within or around said property, which of course includes the Capitol.

From personal observation at previous Proms, I have seen laws violated, especially in regard to participants having liquor on their persons or being in an intoxicated condition. I should very much regret to have it become necessary to make any arrests on the night of February 4, when I have arrangements made to have special officers stationed around the Capitol. My instructions to these officers are that any person found showing signs of intoxication or having liquor in their possession shall be promptly arrested and taken to the lockup or jail. I have always thought that if there is any place the law should be respected and obeyed, it is in the State Capitol.

Trusting you will endeavor as far as possible to have this information passed on to members of the different organizations composing the prom attendance with the hope that they will play their part in giving this department their support and cooperation, I am very sincerely yours, Clint Ballard Sup't. of Public Property.

ELECT OFFICERS OF S. S. CLASS

Smithmen Lose Game but Show Old-Time Kaukauna
Fighting Spirit

Kaukauna—A revamped Kaukauna High school basketball machine played a whirlwind of a game against the strong Appleton High school outfit at Armory G at Appleton Tuesday evening. Kaukauna finally lost by a 25 to 17 score. Kaukauna held its own throughout the entire first half and at the end of the second. Fresh from a 25 to 17 beating at the hands of the mediocre Clintonville team on Friday the squad put up the gamiest fight of the season just five days later. Captain Macerone and Lester played their best for Kaukauna and Macerone emerged from the game with three baskets and three free throws to his credit. He played a nice floor game breaking through the Appleton defense many times. Every Kaukauna rooster at the game, and there were hundreds of them, was pleased with the evening's performance and are looking forward with pleasure to the New London game at Kaukauna Saturday night.

Another pleasant thought is the return game Appleton must play at Kaukauna the middle of March. Present indications point to an exceedingly close game. Lutz and Johnson appeared to be the big guns for Appleton and the former killed Kaukauna's hopes for a victory in the second half when he dropped four baskets, giving the Orange and Blue squad a substantial lead.

KAUKAUNA ALLEYS WIN
FROM DE PERE SQUAD

Kaukauna—The Kaukauna Alleys defeated the West Side Bowling alleys of De Pere in three straight games here Tuesday evening. Kaukauna had a margin of at least thirty pins in each game. Lambie hit 531 for high three game total for Kaukauna and Wobosel rolled 550 for high three game for DePere. Lambie rolled high single game with 230.

CUBS DROP SLOW GAME
TO KIMBERLY-CLARK TEAM

Kaukauna—The Kaukauna Y. M. C. A. Cubs dropped a lissless game to the Kimberly-Clark squad Tuesday evening on the Appleton Y. M. C. A. floor. The final score was 24 to 10. The local team appeared to have no life whatsoever and the mill crew easily ran up a good sized score on the Cubs with only fair playing. Vandersteen appeared to be the only Kaukauna man able to get going and "Stony" made three baskets and a free throw. Williams made five baskets for Kaukauna for 10 of Williams' 24 points. Williams floor game was good although the Cubs managed to keep Kimberly's front line offense well covered. The first half ended 12 to 2 with the Cubs apparently hopelessly out of it. Kimberly broke through Kaukauna's five man defense for many short spots at the basket but was only able to make a few of them. Neither of Kimberly's forwards were able to make a basket. Bush and Clark, guards, both got through and made two baskets for the mill men. Kaukauna's other lonely basket was made by St. Mitchell. St. Mitchell got two shots at the basket during the entire game.

KAUKAUNA PERSONALS

Kaukauna—Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Samuels of Racine, are visiting friends in Kaukauna.

Miss Elsie McCormick of DePere, is spending Sunday in Kaukauna with friends.

Louis Behrens of Milwaukee, was a business caller in Kaukauna on Monday.

Mrs. John Sturm of Manitowoc, is visiting friends in this city for the week.

Joseph Williams of Manitowoc, is spending the week in the city with friends.

SACHA FUNERAL

Kaukauna—The funeral of John Sacha, 62, of this city was held at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning at St. Mary's Catholic church with the Rev. C. R. Ryan in charge. Interment was in the south side Catholic cemetery.

Mr. Sacha died at 6:30 Friday evening in Appleton. He was born in Czechoslovakia. He came to this country about ten years ago. He was employed at the Thilmany mill in this city. As far as can be determined the only survivors are his widow in Europe and a son somewhere in the United States.

The Post-Crescent's representative at Kaukauna is Gordon Patton. His telephone numbers are 293 J and 10. Business with The Post-Crescent may be transacted through Mr. Patton.

EXPECT TO SET DATE
FOR FAIR AT MEETING

Kaukauna—Final plans for the annual mid-winter fair will be made at a meeting of the Kaukauna Advancement association at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in the council chambers of the Municipal building. Chairman W. P. Hiaman will name the date of the fair at that time. It also is expected that Mr. Hiaman will announce the committee that are to work on the fair. Plans for including teachers in the fair will be made.

COUNCIL ORDERS
PUBLIC HEARING
ON ZONING PLANWon't Take Action Until People
Have Chance to Express Themselves

Kaukauna—Citizens of Kaukauna will be given an opportunity to voice their opinion on city zoning at the next meeting of the city council on Tuesday evening, Feb. 15. This was decided at a meeting of the city council Tuesday evening in the municipal building. It was the opinion of the council that the citizens should be allowed to express themselves on a zoning ordinance. A large part of the meeting was devoted to a discussion of zoning.

A resolution was adopted to purchase of a new grader and snow plow for $2,000. The utility commission will pay half the price of the grader and the council the other half. At present the city has only one grader and snow plow and this is inadequate to keep the city streets clean and to open the road to power plant at Rapids Croche. With the new plow it will be possible to keep the Combined Locks road open also, aldermen believe.

The council allowed J. Jaeger $50 for the death of one of his horses while being used by the city.

Social Items

Kaukauna—Sacred Heart court of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters will entertain St. Mary court of the Catholic Order of Foresters and their friends at a card party in the south side Forester hall on Wednesday evening.

Knights of Columbus Ladies will hold their regular meeting Thursday afternoon in the K. C. club rooms on Wisconsin-ave. A social hour will follow the business meeting.

TWO TEAMS ROLL IN STATE MEET SUNDAY

Kaukauna—Two bowling squads will roll in the state bowling tournament at Racine. The Electric Cities and the Kaukauna Alleys will take the alleys Sunday evening. On Monday morning members of both teams will roll in the singles and doubles events. The Electric City lineup includes B. Lambie, P. Smith, W. Johnson, A. Bayorgson and H. Minkbeez. The Kaukauna Alleys will have Haasacker, Koski, L. Smith, Oudenhoven and P. Hagenberg.

APPLETON HIGH CAGERS SWAMP KAUKAUNA FIVE 29 TO 17

Kaws Surprise Orange Quint But Are Unable To Hold Regular Crew

Lutz, Johnston Feature Orange Win; Macrorie, Esler Smith Stars

Appleton high school cagers defeated Kaukauna high, 29 to 17, at Armory G Tuesday evening. The game was exciting and was filled with thrills from beginning to end keeping the rooters of both teams yelling most of the time. The Kawmen came up the valley and completely surprised Appleton, presenting a lineup considerably stronger than was expected. Both Kaukauna and Appleton fought hard all through the game and not until Lutz was inserted into the game in the third period did the Orange have a commanding lead. Lutz shot four baskets in the second half. Up to this time Kaukauna was always within striking distance of Appleton although the Smithmen never did lead the Shields crew. The first half ended 13 to 8 with the Orange warriors just managing to keep a lead over the down river team.

According to tradition, Kaukauna and Appleton fight their hardest when they meet each other in any form of contest and Tuesday evening proved to be no exception. The old feud was there and the supposedly weak "Galloping Ghosts" fought the strong Appleton team evenly through the largest part of the game. Another surprise of the evening was the playing of Johnston. Johnston scored three baskets and six free throws, a total of 12 points. The playing of Pfeiffer at center, Johnson at forward and Lutz at forward in the last half were the features for the Orange squad.

Kunitz and Moore also showed up well at guard. Coach Shields used ten men in the game. In the middle of the third period, he sent in an entirely new team. Lutz was among them and it was not long before he made things hum and the Kawmen had to play their best to keep up with the fast-traveling Shieldsmen.

Esler and Macrorie did some fine playing for the Kawmen. Both working smoothly. Fresh from a 25 to 3 defeat at Clintonville Friday night the Electric City team presented a constructed outfit that put a game fight from the opening whistle to the final report of the gun. The floor work of both teams was fairly even with Appleton having a slight advantage. Appleton got through Kaukauna's five-man defense and then were able to suck out the guards, while the Kawmen traveled through the Orange defense making many short shots at the basket.

The game opened with Pfeiffer tossing in a free throw in the first minute of play. Johnston followed with two more. Then MacFadden dropped a free throw for the Kawmen. With the score 3-1, Pfeiffer made a basket and Catlin failed in an attempt for a free throw. Johnston made two more free throws in the first half without a miss and then surprised all by dropping neat baskets from close range. Macrorie made two long ones for Kaukauna and MacFadden dropped one to keep the Kaukauna squad within striking distance of Appleton.

MacFadden committed four personal fouls during the first half of the game and was removed. W. Miller substituted. Verbeten also went in for Esler. With the opening of the second half, Esler was back in for the Smithmen. He dropped a nice basket putting Kaukauna but three points behind Appleton with the score, 13-10.

In the middle of the third period Shields sent in his regular team consisting of Lutz, Reetz, Laird, Steinberg and Kunitz. Five technical fouls were called on Appleton when the first team left the floor without being ordered off. Macrorie missed all five for Kaukauna. The new squad proved to have considerably more speed than the first five and with Lutz shooting well Appleton soon had a commanding lead. During this half Kunitz made two free throws and Johnston did the same while Pfeiffer netted two baskets for the Orange when he was sent in at four for Reetz.

In this same half W. Miller scored a basket for the Kawmen and Macrorie made another and two free throws. Biseix also made a free throw.

White Sox Outfielder Says Collins Made Him Successful Player

Chicago—Johnny Mostil, star center fielder of the Chicago White Sox, regrets the passing of Eddie Collins as manager. He says:

"What little success I have had as a ball player can be traced back to the coming of Collins as my manager. He made me believe in myself just when my confidence was waning. I lost."

"Under the management of Eddie Collins at Chicago, I feel that I have improved my play. I feel that I have come to the majors I 'sp' to be a star and believed I 'd."

"Then came cover years of mediocre success, in '16 several managers didn't think as much of my ability as I did. They disc'ed me and I was wavering when Collins took charge of the Sox."

"He must have known no faults, because under him I began to play the game I 'd and I was capable of. I only hope that I 'd do as well for Ray Schalk, who succeeds him."

"When Eddie Collins was 'ch' of the Chicago club in 1925, he told Mostil to let him know if he was to be a star or not. He proceeded to steal 143 bases, six times as many as in the previous season."

Harry Fenner, back guard on Ohio State's basketball team, never tried his hand much at animal training, but he has succeeded in getting a basketball to do pretty much everything but talk.

Fenner can take a basketball, any one will do, and spin it on the end of his finger. If you think it's easy try it some time.

THURNBLAD, HALL LEAD CUE TOURNEY

Each Has Won Two Straight Matches; Cuban Star Shows Real Ability

Chicago—Raimundo Campanioni the Cuban visitor to the American three-cushion billiard tournament, who is championed Wednesday against the champion Otto Reisel of Philadelphia is enjoying his first American tourney and would like to stay in the country six months, he said through an interpreter.

Nervous in his first game, Mundito, as the Cubans call him, drew the tournament its most thrilling finish Tuesday and was beaten only 50 to 49.

Allen Hall of St. Louis and Art Thurnblad of Chicago Wednesday were in the lead with two victories each. Earl Lookabough of Lindenwood, Ill., who like Mundito has never played in a national championship match before won his first round game Tuesday and leads off the third day's matches Wednesday. Tiff Denton of Kansas City and Thurnblad drew a best of three match.

Turnblad holds the average game through his defeat of Denton in 44 innings. Reisel holds the high run mark of the tournament with nine.

HIS WIFE'S HUSBAND
(A Fun Shop Movie)
In Three Reels
By L. H. Dahl

Reel One (Scene: Bertram Barnes, a small mild man, and his wife Ella, a large, overbearing woman, are visiting the zoo. They pause before the cage of the rhinoceros.)
Ella: "My, isn't he plain!"
Bertram: "Yes, it's a very curious fish."
Ella: "You poor simp, that isn't a fish. That's a reptile."
Bertram: "Anybody with half the brains of a house would know at a glance that's a fish!"
(Ella brandishes her umbrella and takes after him. Bertram is in full flight as the reel ends.)

Reel Two (Scene: Another part of the zoo, two months later. A little boy and his mother are standing before the giraffe's cage.)
Little Boy: "Ma, what's that darn homely thing?"

Reel Three (Scene: A little later—another part of the zoo. Ella approaches a man who is carrying two buckets of water.)
Ella: "Have you seen a little shrimp that was running away from his wife?"
Keeper: "It must be that little guy that's hiding behind the lions in the lion cage."
Ella: "Oh, the coward, the coward!"

MOTHER: "You mustn't point, dan-ling."
Ella (coming up running): "Have you seen an insignificant looking little runt of a man running as hard as he could?"
Mother (pointing): "He went that way."

NEW LONDON TAKES GAME FROM WAUPACA

Red and White Team Shows
Decided Improvement Since
East Depere Tilt

New London—Showing a decided improvement over last week's game with East Depere, New London high led by Cooley and Dernbach, swamped Waupaca high school 21 to 12 Tuesday night. Held down by excellent guarding, Waupaca was unable to make a field goal. The passing attack of the visiting team was good, but Seims and Beckert broke up any attempts under the basket. The game was fast and rough at times. New London was charged with 19 and Waupaca with 12 personal fouls.

Hanson, Waupaca's forward made seven free throws out of seven chances. Although Cooley, the Red and White center, was outmanned by Borchardt, Waupaca's husky center, he played all around the visitor on the offensive, making four baskets. Dernbach as usual broke away and dribbled half the length of the floor on some of his field goals. He made three baskets and three free throws.

The game started with Hanson making a point for Waupaca on a foul. New London came back with a field goal when Borchardt secured the ball on a pass out and dribbled down the side of the hall. Cooley was the next man to make a pretty shot and put New London in a 4 to 1 lead. The half ended 11 to 4 in the Red and White favor.

In the second half both teams made several substitutions. Coach Polomski sent in Hetzer to take Kische's place and Kische went in again when Hetzer tried the pivot position. After Hetzer was sent to the shower on fouls Cooley went back in again. All of the subs got a chance to play as Dernbach and Beckert joined Hetzer before the game was over.

SEA BEASTS?
Philadelphia—Capt. John Peterson, veteran Sandy Hook pilot, tells this one: Once while this pilot ship was cruising about waiting for inbound liners, lions were reported off the port bow. Then tigers! Then giraffes and hippos! Captain Johnny saw it with his own eyes and so did the rest of the crew. Next day Johnny read in the paper of a merry-go-round being washed away to sea by a storm on the Jersey coast.

Success Of Festival Encourages
Boosters For Community Building

DISPLAYS OF THE MID-WINTER FESTIVAL WHICH WAS HELD AT NEW LONDON ON SUNDAY AND MONDAY. THE LARGEST CROWD EVER TO BE ENTERTAINED UNDER ONE ROOF IN THIS CITY WAS PRESENT MONDAY NIGHT AT THE CLOSING EVENT OF THE FESTIVAL. THE AFFAIR WAS HELD IN THE NEW MENZIES SHOE FACTORY BUILDING.

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—That New London may have a community hall is a possibility of the near future, since the splendid success of the midwinter festival staged in the Menzie shoe factory building met with such phenomenal support and success. Talk of New London's needs for a building large enough to house community affairs has been on the lips of nearly all business men and those most interested in the city's youth.

The American legion has for some time made manifest its whole-hearted enthusiasm toward the erection of some sort of memorial. Opinion is divided as to what the veterans of the Civil war feel that they desire a memorial which would meet with their financial status would be one of stone, fittingly inscribed. In the event that the Memorial hall ever becomes a reality, World war veterans state that somewhere upon its walls place would be set aside for inscription dedicated to the use of the hall to those men and women of past wars who gallantly met the crises of their day.

W. H. Hatton when asked what, in his opinion, would be the proper course for the city to follow cited the words of Dickens who was one time asked what sort of a monument he would deem suitable. The reply said Mr.

Hatton, pointed out that the works of men during their lives should serve as memorials. Mr. Hatton further stated that the erection of a memorial hall would not doubt be of vast good to New London.

Pay L. Smith, when asked to give his opinion regarding the project, stated that from every standpoint he is thoroughly in favor of the erection of a community center. "From the point of cooperation, the advantages to the farmers, the merchant, the youth of the city and particularly from the standpoint of the dollar, it would be an excellent thing," said Mr. Smith. "At present I can see no logical solution for the financial end of it, yet that solution might come from the cooperative spirit which it rife at the present. Men and women are talking it on the streets. The time has never been so opportune as now since all types worked so loyally toward the event which has just been completed. 'If the idea of a $100,000 factory had been broached a year ago I would have said that the thing was utterly impossible—yet look what has been done.'"

Mr. Smith stated that influence of such a hall he believed, would be the best. Growing lads would have the opportunity of mingling in playtime spirit with the right sort of older men. Merchants would be given an opportunity to for constant display and advertising, a thing which the wide awake merchant is constantly looking for. The hall could be made remunerative by giving it to the uses of farmer institutes, conventions and stock fairs.

No matter what sort of high school we build, continued Mr. Smith, the auditorium we will build should be for the uses of school affairs alone. Such a one as would suit the uses of a school would not possibly meet the requirements of a community.

Asked whether the financing of a community center would interfere with the progress of the school fund, Mr. Smith stated that he did not believe it would do so in view of the present plans of setting aside a given sum annually toward the building of a school.

"Among other business men" approached was E. F. Ramm who also gave his entire approval to the suggestion of a hall. "I believe that the thing would pay for itself in the spirit of cooperation alone," stated Mr. Ramm. "There is no better time than the present for putting it over."

Chicago—(AP)—Interstation interference, that bugaboo of the radio fan which has sprung up within the last year or so, is due largely to the demand for greater transmitting power, asserts Dr. H. Preston Pratt, Chicago scientist and inventor. A solution, he adds, lies in a decrease of power and an increase in potential or voltage to balance the loss in wattage or power.

Dr. Pratt, who for 40 years has been delving into the mysteries of communication, both wire and wireless, says that broadcast transmission could cover as great a distance with high potential and low wattage as under the present reverse system.

"Distance is determined entirely by the potential and not the wattage," he explains. "For example, a transmitting potential of 500,000 volts with a wattage of five will cover a greater distance than the use of 50,000 watts. "There is room enough on the air for many more broadcast stations without interference provided the wattage is reduced to 100 or less and the voltage jumped up to counteract the loss in power."

"Listeners obtained much better reception when there were no high powered stations. If the so-called super power transmitters are reduced so that the strongest station will not be over 1,000 watts, coast to coast reception with absolute clarity would result."

BOOK BROTHERS ADD
TO DETROIT TOWER

Building Is Monument to Ambitious Downtown Development Project

Detroit—(AP)—When the Book brothers, with their 50-story building on Washington boulevard next year, they will have added one more steel and concrete monument to what probably is the most ambitious downtown development project ever attempted by one family in an American city.

"THOROUGHFARE TO ORDER"

The boulevard is wide, with a park running through the middle. At its northern end stand a hotel, a theatre, an office and shop buildings. The remainder of the thoroughfare is almost entirely Book-owned, with the exception of a Catholic cathedral.

The first of the brothers' efforts to construct a "thoroughfare to order" was the Book building. Then came the Book-Cadillac hotel 23 stories high, erected at the foot of the Boulevard on the site of the historic Cadillac hotel. In retaining the name "Cadillac," the Books merely preserved a family name, for the great French adventurer and explorer was an ancestor of the Book family.

AVIATION CLUB A PROJECT
The "1500 Washington boulevard building," was next, giving Detroit its first building to carry the name of a street number. The "Book tower" then arose. It is 35 stories in height, Michigan's tallest building until the new Book tower is built. The Industrial bank building of 15 stories became tenable two months ago.

Still another Book brothers' project is the Aviation Town and Country club building, planned for construction on Washington boulevard near the new tower. Ultra-modern accommodations called for in the specifications include a mooring mast atop the building capable of mooring the largest dirigible.

Establishment of a training school in central Alberta for young Jewish farmers, similar to that being operated by the Federated Jewish farmers of Ontario, is under way.

TESTS FOR CAREERS
London—If poets are born and not made then the same rule must be applied to the candlestick makers, is the belief of the National Institute of Industrial Psychology which recently examined several thousand London school children. Experiments supported by the Carnegie United Kingdom Trust are given with the aim to apply practical psychology to the problem of deciding the future careers of school children.

1,355 INCREASE IN BOOK CIRCULATION IN CITY LIBRARY

Librarian Reports Increase in Number of Patrons in Last Month

A gain in circulation of 1,355 books in January, 1927, over the same month last year was reported by Miss Florence C. Day, librarian, at the monthly meeting of the library board at the library Tuesday afternoon. In the adult department the increase was 667 and in the juvenile department 688 more books were taken. This is an unusual increase for a library of its size, the librarian stated. In January 1927 there were 11,642 books circulated, and in January 1926, only 10,287.

Over twice as many volumes of fiction were lent as non-fiction, the report continued. There were 1,746 volumes of non-fiction circulated in the adult department, 1,757 in the children's, and 3,541 total. In fiction, there were 4,929 volumes in the adult, 2,632 in the juvenile, and 7,561 total. There were 243 foreign books lent and 277 volumes of unbound periodicals. The total circulation in the two departments was 7,186 for the adult and 4,456 in the children's. Four books were received as gifts.

At the beginning of the month there were 18,452 volumes in the library in the adult department, 6,075 in the juvenile, and 24,527 total. One hundred seven books were added during the month, including 20 children's and 87 adult. The net number of volumes at the close of January was 24,634.

More than 200 registrations were made at the library, consisting of 124 children and 75 adults. At the beginning of the month there were 5,472 adult borrowers, 2,639 children and 8,111 total. Seven teachers were made from the juvenile to the adult sections. The registrations cancelled were 159. The number of borrowers at the end of the month was 5,481 adults, 2,567 children, and 8,048 total. Outside of the city limits were 519 and those who live outside of the county, 41.

Forty-four study reference questions were answered. These were appportioned to 17 for study clubs, nine for students, two for teachers and five for the general public. The types of questions asked were: Nineteen on history and travel, eight on literature, nine on art, four on current topics, and four on special and technical topics. In the ready reference section, 104 questions were answered at the main desk and 11 over the telephone.

Mrs. C. C. Fritz, mother of Mrs. Harry Tietzen of Shawano, formerly of Appleton, died Tuesday at her home at 600 Franklin st., Shawano, according to word received here. The funeral will be held Friday at Shawano. The survivors are her widower, three daughters, Mrs. Peter Bihelhausen of Eau Claire, Mrs. Arthur Iven and Mrs. Harry Tietzen of Shawano, one brother, Dr. Schroeder of Shawano, and one sister.

John Bergholz, 41, died Wednesday morning at his home at 513 E. Hancock st., after a short illness. The survivors are his widow, three children, Rosella, Marie, Dorothy, Betty Jane, William and John.

Miss Lillian Scherer, 18, of Fond du Lac, a freshman at Lawrence college, died early Wednesday morning following an operation for appendicitis on Tuesday. The girl was taken to the hospital when she was writing final examinations for the semester Monday. She had made arrangements the same day for returning to school for the new term to start Tuesday, Feb. 8.

Miss Scherer was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Scherer, 639 Juneau st., Fond du Lac. Her parents were called here when she became ill. The body was taken to Fond du Lac.

COMBINED LOCKS ADDS $3,000 TO TREASURY

The county coffers were replenished by $3,000 Tuesday, a check for this amount being received from Combined Locks village as part payment of its county taxes. It was reported by Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, county treasurer. A number of towns and villages have been submitting part of their taxes during the last three weeks, thus helping the county carry on during a period when its financial condition was unusually distressed.

Pre-Lenten Service

The Rev. W. J. Diekvoos of Denmark, Wis., will give the first of a series of pre-lenten services at 7:30 Thursday evening at the Emanuel Evangelical church. The services will be held every Thursday until Easter.

PRINCIPALS TALK OVER WAYS TO STOP SCHOOL FAILURES

Devise System to Take Up Student's Problems When They Begin to "Slip"

Means of preventing subject failures were presented by Dr. M. H. Small and A. G. Oosterhouse, principals of the Wilson and Roosevelt junior high schools, at the meeting of principals of the junior and senior high schools Tuesday morning with Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools. A system of consultations between the principal, teacher and pupils who is not doing satisfactory work, has been established and has been a success, the principals said.

At Roosevelt school of 138 pupils who were not doing satisfactory work, 85 were salvaged by this means, Mr. Oosterhouse believed. Dr. Small also cited instances where the pupil had been brought above the danger line of failing because special attention had been given to his weaknesses. The principle of the system is to take a preview of the child's work before he has had a chance to fail.

If H. Heible, principal of Appleton high school, reported on a pamphlet he is preparing for ninth grade pupils who contemplate entering the senior high school. This too is based on the "preview" idea. Junior high school students are given a chance to study what courses are offered at the senior high school, what he should take if he expects to go to college, and other differences in the junior and senior schools.

The salary schedule discussed at the last meeting of the group was reviewed. The schedule was suggested after a thorough study had been made of the schedules of Janesville, Fond du Lac, West Allis, Oshkosh, Wausau and other schools existing in the state in cities of about the same size as Appleton. The educational committee of the board of education will be presented with the suggestions.

An announcement was made of a convention of the World Federation of the Educational Association in Toronto, Canada, Aug. 7 to 12.

BIRTHS

A son was born Saturday, Jan. 29 at St. Elizabeth hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Peters of Greenville.

A son, Harlow Ruben, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Hoskins of Milwaukee at the home of Mrs. Hoskins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fowler, 1208 S. State st., Mrs. Hoskins formerly was Miss Agnes Fowler.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. E. Bodoh, 1342 W. Spencer st., Wednesday morning at St. Elizabeth hospital.

SENIORS CONSIDER WAYS TO SUPPORT "CLARION"

Financial support of the Clarion will be discussed at the monthly class meeting of high school seniors Tuesday morning. Each year the seniors make an undertaking to help the staff make a commercial success of the yearbook.

Final selection of commencement invitations will be made by the class. A committee chose several samples several weeks ago, and these will be presented to the entire class for selection. Gifts to the school from the senior class also will be suggested.

The sophomore and junior classes will meet at the same hour, but no special business has been planned. A schedule of class meetings has been made so that each month the meetings are held at different hours during the school day, thus not interfering with the school work of one class each month.

Directors of the Winnebagoland Co. and the Butte des Morts golf club were reelected at meetings of the two organizations Tuesday evening at the city hall. Directors of the Land company are A. H. Krugmeier, John Neller and Daniel P. Steinberg of Appleton, F. J. Sennsbrunner, Neenah, and W. H. Miner, Menasha. Directors of the golf club are A. H. Krugmeier, E. Sennsbrunner, John Neller and E. H. Harwood, Appleton, and Harry Price, Neenah.

Formal discussions of the work for 1927 and projects for 1927 were held at both meetings after the election of directors.

NICHOLS HOLDS ANOTHER INSTITUTE AT Y. M. C. A.

The second meeting of the staff of the Y. M. C. A. with A. B. Nichols, New York, religious work secretary of the national council of the association, was held Wednesday morning. Mr. Nichols held his first meeting with the staff Tuesday morning and the members helped him outline a 3-day program of religious institutes for local men. Wednesday the men discussed the position of the Y. M. C. A. in coordination with the other Religious Forces of the City and this discussion will be concluded Thursday morning at the final meeting.

Mr. Nichols also led a religious discussion at a meeting of dormitory men of the association Tuesday evening. Wednesday evening he will be the guest at a banquet for members of the religious work and boys work committees of the association, board of directors, Young Men's club, ministers of Appleton and the executive committee of the Y's Men's club. After the banquet he will lead another institute for this group on the coordination subject and he may also talk at the regular meeting of the H.Y. club if he has time. Thursday he will leave for Green Bay where he will carry on a similar institute.

LAWRENCE PROFESSORS ACT AS DEBATE JUDGES

Lawrence college professors will judge several debates between high school teams the latter part of the week. Prof. A. L. Franke of the public speaking department, will go to Kaukauna Friday when that school will meet the Sturgeon Bay high school squad. Iron Mountain, Mich., and Escanaba, Mich., will debate at Iron Mountain where Prof. William L. Crowe of the political science department will act as judge. Prof. A. A. Trever of the ancient history department, will judge a debate at Neenah between the Neenah school and Kaukauna.

Prof. Franke judged a meet between Kewaunee and Menasha high schools at Kaukauna last week. The decision was in favor of Menasha.

$7,930 CLAIM AGAINST ESTATE IS DISALLOWED

A $7,930.37 claim of Mary Drexler, 322 W. Franklin st., against the estate of the late Mrs. Theresa Drexler, Wednesday morning was disallowed in probate court by Judge Theodore Berg, sitting for Judge Fred V. Heinemann.

The claimant alleged this sum was due her from her mother's estate for money placed in trust with the mother between 1907 and 1916. She alleged she had given a total of $8,967.68 to her mother during this period with the understanding that it would be returned. Only $1,037.31 was returned, she alleged, and her claim was for the balance.

Objectors to the claim, all children of the deceased, alleged that this money never had been placed in trust with the mother, and that the mother never was indebted to the claimant. The objectors were Joseph, Ignatz, Frank, and Louis Drexler, Theresa, Myse and Catherine Verrier.

Judge Berg disallowed the claim when the claimant failed to prove that she had placed any money in trust with her mother.

REELECT DIRECTORS OF BUTTE DES MORTS

Directors of the Winnebagoland Co. and the Butte des Morts golf club were reelected at meetings of the two organizations Tuesday evening at the city hall. Directors of the Land company are A. H. Krugmeier, John Neller and Daniel P. Steinberg of Appleton, F. J. Sennsbrunner, Neenah, and W. H. Miner, Menasha. Directors of the golf club are A. H. Krugmeier, E. Sennsbrunner, John Neller and E. H. Harwood, Appleton, and Harry Price, Neenah.

Formal discussions of the work for 1927 and projects for 1927 were held at both meetings after the election of directors.

CLUB CHANGES DATE FOR CLUB PLAY RESERVATION

Reservations for seats for the play "Jimmie Bright" to be given by the Dramatic workshop of the Appleton Woman's club, Monday evening at Fishers Appleton theatre, will be open Friday Feb. 4 instead of Feb. 3 as originally planned, Miss Elinor Strickland, coach of the play announced. Ticket teams for the play will meet at the clubhouse at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening to make the semi-final report of the sale.

The play is a comedy especially adapted to amateur production.

PARK BOARD EXPECTS TO LET BAND STAND CONTRACT

The contract for the building a band stand in Pierce park was to be awarded at a meeting of the park board at 7 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Seven local contractors have submitted bids on the project which will cost in the neighborhood of $15,000. The band stand is a part of the $50,000 improvement program in the park.

A revolving sounding board is to be one of the features of the new structure. This sound board will enable the band to give either indoor or outdoor concerts. The pavilion is to be made with removable sides that can be taken down during the summer months and replaced when cold weather arrives. In the rear of the building will be two rest rooms and the basement will be used for storing chairs and tables during the winter. The structure is to be of a rustic design to make it fit with its surroundings.

Markets RENEW BUYING OF MERGER RAIL ISSUES

Whole Market Swings Upward Soon After Opening—Monday Rates Easier

New York (AP)—Renewed buying of the low-priced "merger" rail issues featured the opening of Wednesday's stock market. Western Maryland Common Preferred opened 1 point higher at new high record on initial sales of 2,500 shares. Wheeling and Lake Erie Common and Preferred also resumed their advance, the former showing an overnight gain of 1 point. Industrials tended downward. Remington Typewriter showing an initial loss of 1 point.

The whole market swung upward soon after the opening, with speculation in the low-priced rails at fever pitch. All the Wheeling and Western Maryland issues quickly extended their gains to 2 points or more. Erie Common touched 44, the high price since 1915, and Peoria and Eastern New York Ontario and Western common touched 44, the high price since 1915.

PAISING MONEY RATES

Easing money rates, combined with the low price of the high price New York Federal reserve rediscount rate, stimulated pool activities. The quick sale of the $5,000,000 new South Wales bond issue also had a good effect on speculative sentiment, being construed as an indication of a large investment demand. New bond offerings this week already exceeded $10,000,000 and promise to set a new high weekly record.

Colorado Fuel and Texas Gulf Sulphur mounted to their highest level in a year or longer, while General Motors, National Supply and Columbia Carbide were among the many issues to sell a point or so higher.

Foreign exchanges opened irregular. Spanish dollar dropping 12 points to 16.77 cents on realizing. Demand sterling ruled just above $24.84 and French francs just below 2.25 cents.

Prices of the general list continued to rise during the forenoon under the impetus of fresh speculative and inflated nearly two points higher. The market was buoyed up by the fact that the railroads which lifted nearly two points higher. The market was buoyed up by the fact that the railroads which lifted nearly two points higher.

CIRCUS GROUNDS MAY BE USED AS ATHLETIC FIELD

Proposal Is Offered This Week at Meeting of Maintenance Committee

City property located on W. Spencer-st. and used as circus grounds for several years may be employed as an athletic field for Appleton high school, it was suggested at a meeting of the maintenance committee of the board of education Tuesday morning. The property includes about two city blocks and is near the Appleton Club Co., 1341 W. Spencer-st.

Workable plans will be considered by the committee and H. H. Heible, principal of the school, to see if the suggestion is feasible. The question of transportation of boys to and from the field would have to be solved. The property was purchased by the old Third district school board when the city schools were operated under the district system. When the central system supplanted the district, the lots were transferred to the city.

Last fall high school games were played on the Lawrence college Whiting football field. The two schedules were arranged not to conflict, because both use the same field and because financial success was more assured if games are played on separate dates. The Wilson junior high school field and others were used for practice, but the arrangement was not satisfactory, the school authorities announced.

BOYS' WEEK PROGRAM

OUTLINED TO SCHOOLS

Nominations, elections and the program for Boys' week were outlined by R. M. Eickmeyer, activities secretary at the Y. M. C. A. to students of the junior and senior high schools Monday afternoon. The program for the week is sponsored by the Y's men's club of the Y. M. C. A. with the cooperation of the schools, churches, and luncheon clubs.

Nomination papers were to be circulated Monday afternoon. Mr. Eickmeyer stated, and he explained their purpose and how they were to be managed. These papers are to be in the hands of the club by Thursday, and elections of all city officers and schoolmen will be held Feb. 8. The successful candidates will be sworn in at the office on the night of Feb. 18 and will rule the city during the following 24 hours.

EXTENSION WORK IS

OFFERED TO TEACHERS

Three classes in extension work for vocational and industrial teachers, principally those in the Fox river valley schools, are to be held in Oshkosh beginning Saturday, Feb. 5, according to word received at the Appleton Vocational school. Registration blanks were distributed to local teachers but it is not yet known whether any will attend the school.

The University of Wisconsin extension division will sponsor the classes, providing enough teachers are interested in the work. The actual teaching will be done by the faculty of Oshkosh Normal school. The classes are being offered as a result of a recommendation adopted at the Northeastern Teacher's association gathering in Oshkosh last October.

Three courses will be offered. They are Vocational and Industrial Education, College Algebra and Freshman English. Two credits are available in each subject and the program of study is to be arranged to allow a student to enroll in all three courses.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, hollow cheeks, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 50c and 60c. adv.

Husband, Wife Must Guard Doors To Cut Food Costs

Madison — (P)—Husband and wife should assume the role of guards, one at the front door and the other at the rear, to cut the cost of food according to Bernice Dodge of the home economics department at the University of Wisconsin.

In an address in connection with Farmers and Homemakers Week, Miss Dodge also suggested a return to the "corn beef and cabbage" diet in order to improve the health of parents and children.

"In establishing a home," she said, "a young couple should also establish a business partnership. From that moment, in the eye of the law, each has a new legal status regarding property rights and obligations; the man's income is no longer his personal and independent concern any more than his store is exclusively his when he has taken in a business partner. Her contribution of home work usually makes it possible for them to live on a scale which would cost twice as much if she were not there."

"To decrease the cost of food, we must set guards at the two doors of the house; the first guard we must see that whatever we bring in at the front door is wisely and carefully selected, and the second, and even more vigilant guard at the back door, must see that not a crumb of good food is thrown out."

"True economy is not miserliness."

but wise spending. The buying of food requires careful planning and a level head, it cannot be a haphazard thing. The wise buyer will lay in a supply of staples, in as large quantities as her storage facilities, and the time of the year, will permit, realizing that the cost per pound is less.

"Most people, if they will confess to the truth, really like the plain, old-fashioned foods, the winter vegetables, like corn beef and cabbage, onions, turnips, carrots, and the simple foods we ate as children, like bread and milk, and mush and milk, and winter apples out of the barrel. The wise mother uses this sort of fare a good deal, knowing that it is good for her family and also inexpensive."

"It pays to 'shop around' in buying foods. We hate to feel that we are paying more than we need to for food, when there are so many other things we should like to be able to afford."

"But even more important than the ability to buy wisely is the skill to make good use of every bit purchased. If the housewife has the time and strength to give to her job, she can feel well paid for her work by the amount she can save by doing her own baking and by cooking the cheaper cuts of meat and the cheap vegetables into tender and savory dishes."

NAME AUCTIONEERS OF BASKET SOCIAL

R. M. Connelly and Earl Bates
Will Dispose of "Surprise"
Baskets

R. M. Connelly and Earl Bates were elected auctioneers for the basket social and dance of Oney Johnson post of the American Legion and its auxiliary, which will be held Monday evening, Feb. 21 at Elk hall, at a joint meeting of the post executive and entertainment committees Monday evening at the office of P. F. Wheeler, post adjutant. It was decided to invite Legion and auxiliary members and the friends of both to the affair.

The program will open with a basket social handled by the auctioneers and this will include the selling of several "surprise" baskets. After the social dancing and luncheon will conclude the program, with the Gib Forest orchestra furnishing music for the dance.

R. M. Connelly was appointed a committee of one to confer with the manager of The Big Parade, now showing at Neenah, in an effort to bring it to Appleton under the Monday of the local post. Fifty cards of prospective members were distributed at the meeting. All are those of active members last year, who have not enrolled in the post this year. When they have been secured the post will be able to report a membership of 600 at the state mid-winter conference at Medford Thursday and Friday.

DISCUSS PROGRAM OF DAY SCHOOL CLASSES

The program for the day school classes of the Appleton Vocational school was discussed at an adjourned meeting of the board of industrial education at the vocational school Monday evening. Another adjourned meeting of the board will be held at 7:30 Saturday evening to continue the discussion.

THRIFT STRESSED IN JANUARY WILSONIAN

Thrift was the theme of the January issue of the Wilsonian, monthly publication of the Wilson junior high school distributed Friday. Signed articles by Frances Brewer, literary editor, and Virginia Hoesgood, editor-in-chief, appeared on the subject and two anonymous contributions urged the cause of thrift.

Sports, humor, the school honor roll for the first semester, and a story by Mary Coates complete the contents of the paper.

ADVERTISING STUDENTS WILL STUDY PRINTING

Printing processes will be studied at the third class of the nine weeks' course in advertising for beginners at the Appleton Vocational school Friday evening. The course is being sponsored by the Appleton Advertising club, whose members teach the course. E. M. Laitala of the Meyer Press will conduct the class. Other subjects to be discussed will be classification of paper, type faces, and what governs the choice of plates and type.
